'Biggest' rummage sale returns to church

by Jeff Pederson
for The Beacon

After nearly two years of waiting, the anticipation is building for the 33rd Trash 'N Treasure Rummage Sale, which is set to return to St. Paul Lutheran Church in Sheboygan Falls on Saturday, Sept. 18.

With an estimated 300 shoppers expected to be eagerly waiting at the door, the 2021 version of the Trash 'N Treasure Rummage Sale will open at 9 a.m. and conclude at 3 p.m. at 730 County PPP in Sheboygan Falls.

The highly popular sale was greatly missed my many in the community last year.

As a result, the 2021 Trash 'N Treasure Rummage Sale has the potential to be one for the record books.

"Due to COVID-19, it was necessary to cancel the sale in 2020," Trash 'N Treasure Co-Founder and Chairperson Lorrie Wilson said. "The volunteers are roaring to go to make this year's sale bigger and better than ever."

"I have heard several people saying that they recently moved and have a truck load or a garage full of donations to contribute to this year's sale," she said.

Trash 'N Treasure Sale shoppers will be greeted by outdoor sale items displayed on the lawn near the main entrance.

Items such as lawn chairs, bikes, lawn mowers, and yard art are some of the likely items that will be for sale.

Inside the church, shoppers will be able to visit the "General Store" located in the Fellowship Hall. This area will feature household items, small appliances, luggage, lamps and bedding and cedar chest items on display.

Wilson says veteran Trash 'N Treasure Sale shoppers will notice a few changes this year.

"We are making a good change by locating the Furniture Gallery in approximately half of the fellowship hall," Wilson said. "We are expecting many upholstered living room chairs and a beautiful chase lounge. We hope to fill the gallery with couches, tables, lamps, chests and shelving units."

"We are featuring a new shopping area called "Cooks Corner" in a large meeting room featuring everything you might find in a kitchen, except the kitchen sink," she said. "There will also be glassware, dishes, plate sets, canning supplies, baking pots and pans, bakeware and so much more."

In addition, classrooms around the education wing will be designated to showcase various merchandise.

The "Off the Wall and On the Table" rooms contain items that can be used to display and decorate in homes, such as frames, shelves, clocks and pictures. Figurines and art objects will also found in these rooms.

Ladies will be sure to enjoy shopping in the "Jewelry Chest" room, featuring earrings, necklaces, watches and rings at reasonable prices.

The "Toy Chest" is a favorite of young and old shoppers. Holiday shoppers will find a huge selection in the "Holly Day" room, featuring Christmas decorations from a tree, wreaths, figurines, nativity sets to a favorite decorated mug. "Holly Day II" is an area designated to all the other holidays we celebrate throughout the year.

For the avid reader or puzzle lover, there is the "Book Worm" room. Paperbacks are always in demand as well as coffee table volumes, puzzles and boxed games. Music lovers will also find a selection of CDs, tapes and perhaps records to their liking.

Men are sure to be attracted to the items found in the "Sports Locker" and the "Handyman" rooms. The "Crafty Lady" is always a popular stop for the do-it-yourselfer.

Children are sure to gather at the "Toy Chest" to find that toy they don't seem to have as yet.

Other unique items expected to be available for sale include a full-size drum set, men's bike and car rack and a Williraye figurine collection.

When Wilson, who is commonly known as "The Trash Queen," and her friend, Evy Hoegger started discussing the possibility of a rummage sale, they had no idea that 33 years later it would grow into such a large event.

"Several churches in the area have held their own rummage sales following our success," Wilson said. "Over the years, we added more classrooms and now it is known as Sheboygan County's largest rummage sale."

The St. Paul Friends Club has sponsored the sale since it's beginning. Profits from the yearly sales have gone to support various mission projects in the area.

This year proceeds from the Trash 'N Treasure Rummage Sale will go to purchase Bibles for the confirmation students.

The Sheboygan Falls Food Pantry will receive Christmas stockings filled with goodies and Easter gifts to distribute to families.

The St. Paul Friends Club also sends out 5,000 Christmas cards with a holiday-themed Christian message to service men and women.

The sale is assembled by church volunteers who sort, price and display all the merchandise.

Crickets instead of tickets

■ Fans across country still awaiting Ryder Cup admission as of last week

Dave
Boehler

SPORTS EDITOR

The Ryder Cup is just two weeks away, and as of Friday, fans all over the country have not received their tickets for golf's biggest event to be held at Whistling Straits.

"This is a cluster," said Scott Ranke, who lives in Illinois. "If you don't have them out a couple of weeks before a tournament, then you suck it up and pay $20 or $30 a piece and FedEx them to everybody. You put out word that you need 100 volunteers in the area, and they will show up within hours. Every one of them there is willing to help the PGA of America, help the Ryder Cup."

"So I don't understand putting something in an envelope, putting a stamp on it, putting it in the mail, how that's a problem. It's very, very odd. I mean, this is the Super Bowl of golf. I don't know what their problem is. I'm shocked."

I contacted the public relations department of the Ryder Cup Thursday to ask why, and later was sent the following from the PGA of America:

"While it was anticipated that tickets would be delivered four to five weeks in advance of Ryder Cup week, we have experienced unexpected delays and sincerely apologize for any inconvenience. Despite the delay, we can reassure all ticket purchasers that the delivery process is well underway and that tickets will be arriving soon. Once an order has shipped, the ticket purchaser will receive a notice at the email address we have on file from tickets@festivalticketing.com containing tracking information."

"While a majority of tickets have been sent, some tickets are still being processed, primarily caused by production delays and staffing shortages. The ticket fulfillment team is working around the clock to get all orders completed by Tuesday, Sept. 7, 2021."

Perhaps things have improved since our deadline on Friday, but here is a look at how several people have been affected.

Brandon Long
Hughesville, Md.

He actually bought tickets from his hospital bed just hours after an emergency appendectomy and well before COVID-19 wiped out the event last summer.

Long spent "several thousands" on airfare, tickets and a rental car for what he called a "guys trip," and is meeting friends from California, Texas and Georgia.

"It's pretty frustrating to me and the other members in my group," Long said. "This is my first time going. I try to go to a PGA event every year, at least. And I've been to the U.S. Open, the PGA Championship, The Masters; I'm a huge golf fan. The three guys I'm going with this year, we've been planning this event for over two years now."

"It's something we've been really looking forward to. And to have the Ryder Cup say that they're going to send these tickets and then not do that, and there's been no tangible response from them. I've emailed them and received a canned response from the ticket company just saying 'we're in the process of sending them.' I've tried to call; the number is disconnected. It's very frustrating."

Eric Ewoniuk
South Heart, N.D.

He'll be staying with his cousin in Sheboygan and spent $2,000 for weeklong passes.

On Wednesday, Ewoniuk called three times about his tickets, which included a 45-minute wait to talk to someone, but says they were absolutely no help.

"It's not like this was sprung on them, like, 'oh surprise, the Ryder Cup's in three weeks,'" he said. "They've had almost 18 months of knowing - well, a year now since it's been postponed - to get these tickets out. And they were sending out emails saying we'll receive tickets four to six weeks before the event."

"Now it's less than three, and no tickets."

Scott Ranke
Bartlett, Ill.

He volunteered at the 2016 Ryder Cup in Minnesota and has attended three others, including one in Ireland.

But Ranke says he has an odd feeling that the reason they didn't ship tickets is because of the ongoing pandemic, and their plan is to either not allow any fans or to really scale back the amount that will be allowed in. And they are waiting until the very last minute to avoid a serious backlash and media firestorm.

Ranke added when he was a marshal on the 12th hole in the 2012 Ryder Cup in Medinah, Ill., the PGA of America paid Lake Park High School - located directly across the street from the course - $3 million to close for the week.

"I only bring this up because I know the PGA of America has very, very deep pockets and has no problem spending money for the Ryder Cup," Ranke said. "So if there was a problem with the tickets, there's no question in my mind that they would step in and fix it within hours, not months or weeks."

Aaron Hodges
Nashville, Tenn.

He bought tickets two years ago and says he invested $4,000 for the trip.

Hodges actually received an email Thursday to inform him his tickets were being shipped and a UPS tracking number was provided.

On Friday, he checked out the UPS tracking number and was told: "check back tomorrow for an updated delivery date." No transit information was shown as well.

"It seems the Ryder Cup has not taken into any consideration the potential of delivery delays or even out-of-country travelers," Hodges said. "This is a very simple process that Ticketmaster and many other ticketing companies have been successful at for years. To not have the process determined a year in advance and to be this late with ticket delivery is very surprising."

"It makes me question if the event will be this disorganized. It's a bucket-list item for me and I'm having major second thoughts on going even if the tickets arrive in time."

"Where People Are Worth More Than Money"

Michael's nine touchdowns ties state record

Robby Michael tied a state record Aug. 27 with nine touchdowns, a feat that hadn't been accomplished in over 100 years.

The Kohler/Lutheran/Christian senior quarterback also tied the state mark for most passing touchdowns in a game with seven in an 80-6 victory over Random Lake.

The reigning offensive player of the year in the Eastern Wisconsin Conference who is drawing interest from some Division I schools, finished with 19 completions for 265 yards passing and also rushed the ball 11 times for 131 yards.

"It was a great feeling, especially knowing that my teammates were cheering me on the whole way and that I could get them involved as well with seven passing touchdowns," Michael said. "It was just a great moment."

Colin Girdaukas caught three touchdown passes, and the others went to Matt Stephany, Casey Verhagen, Will Grasse and Noah Heinen.

"Obviously 80 points is a lot, but we just did our jobs and everything turned out in a good way for us," Michael said.

Last season, Michael earned second-team all-state by the Associated Press as an all-purpose player.

How do we look?

Unable to get their practice jerseys on time, South's volleyball team found creative ways to bump, set and spike in.

The girls came up with various themed practices, including donning professional sports jerseys.

Others included tie-dyed attire, a Hawaiian theme and long-sleeve button-down shirts for a look similar to a young Tom Cruise in Risky Business.

"It's just a way to have some fun," coach Abby Sigler said. "It's a nice way to do some team bonding."

A shortage at the supply shop delayed their new practice garb until this past Friday, which means Sigler does not have to wear her flowered Hawaiian shirt again.

"I'm usually coming from work and they plan these usually last minute, so I could never have time to go home and grab something," she said.

Handziak switches schools, sports

Because Geneva Handziak changed schools, she had to switch sports, too.

After attending Port Washington as a freshman and competing in gymnastics, the Lutheran junior is in her first season as a diver on the swim team because the Crusaders do not offer her favorite sport.

"I decided it was the closest thing I could do to that," she said. "I really started to like it when I started it, but it was a little rough at first."

Handziak transferred last year but could not join her new team because she lives in Belgium and did not have her driver's license yet.

Her parents also worked during the time morning practice would be.

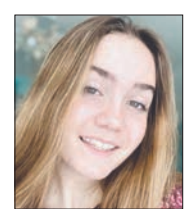

So she waited until this past summer to attend two sessions of the Kohler/Lutheran/Falls co-op team's diving camp. Handziak had been doing gymnastics since sixth grade but had not been on a diving board since the fourth.

"It was terrifying," she said. "I was really excited to try a new sport, but the whole diving board itself just seemed really intimidating. It was scary at first, but the more time you have on the board, the more confident you get."

There were some mental blocks that came with the switch, Handziak says, especially since she was used to landing on the ground but now had to jump into water.

"So at first, I would keep my arms up going into the water they're supposed to be at your side and stuff," she said. "That was a big thing that me and my coach had to work on, because my arms would always go up to the ceiling. And then I always felt like I was going to land on ground, so I would pull my knees up. But the whole flipping aspect of it probably helped quite a bit."

"Seeing from where I started in the beginning of the season and where I've progressed to now is like pretty crazy."

Handziak has finished second and third in two meets, and was joined by a teammate to also place second in a relay meet at South.

"I'm surprised with some of the dives that I've been getting," she said. "It's really scary to try at first, but you get the repetition in and you feel more confident. I'm really proud how much I've progressed this season."

TAUSCHECK RETURNS: Lutheran's other swimmer on the squad is senior Maddie Tauscheck, who is in her fourth varsity season.

Last year, she took fifth in the 100-yard breaststroke and sixth in the 200 individual medley at the conference championship meet.

No farewell tour for Rodgers just yet

DJ Dave Campbell
Associated Press

The goal of a division title for Green Bay's competitors felt in closer reach during the off-season, the rift between Packers leaders and Aaron Rodgers creating legitimate curiosity about whether the three-time league MVP would return to the only franchise he's ever played for.

Well, he's back in green and gold - never left, really - with a last-chance vibe surrounding his chase for a second Super Bowl ring after losing in each of the past two NFC championship games.

"I don't want a farewell tour," the 37-year-old Rodgers said. "I don't know what's going to happen after the season, but I'm going to enjoy it with the right perspective, for sure."

NFL teams are normally absorbed in developing their own players, hesitant to publicly comment on another club's issues for fear of what could be coming around their own corner.

There's no doubt, though, that Chicago, Detroit and Minnesota were paying attention while Rodgers skipped spring practices and spoke openly about his frustration with the approach of the front office.

Vikings coach Mike Zimmer?

"I might've kept track," he said wryly.

The drama surrounding Rodgers and his future likely hasn't disappeared, but the expected transition at quarterback to Jordan Love can wait for now.

The Packers are loaded for another run at a title after 13-3 records in their first two years with coach Matt LaFleur, still riding the enviable wave of having a Hall of Fame-caliber quarterback in place since Brett Favre took over in 1992.

Rodgers replaced him as the starter in 2008, and the Packers have won the NFC North seven of 13 times - plus the Super Bowl after the 2010 season. Here's a glance at the condition of the division that's currently controlled by Green Bay:

PROTECTION PLAN

One potential concern for the Packers is the offensive line, where draft picks Josh Myers (second round) and Royce Newman (fourth round) are in line for starting spots. That's because All-Pro left tackle David Bakhtiari is on the physically unable to perform list, still recovering from a torn ACL and sidelined for a minimum of six games. All-Pro center Corey Linsley left as a free agent.

The Packers have a more than capable fill-in for Bakhtiari with Pro Bowl left guard Elgton Jenkins, but given the exigency surrounding Rodgers and his situation he clearly won't have much patience for rookie mistakes.

"It's Titledown," Rodgers said. "It's championship or disappointment just about every year."

REVAMPED DEFENSE

There's even more pressure on the Vikings, with Zimmer starting his eighth season and only two wins in the playoffs during his tenure. They showed their urgency — or perhaps desperation — by adding 10 veterans to a defense that deteriorated badly last year.

Five-time Pro Bowl safety Harrison Smith will be the only starter in the opener that was in the lineup at the end of last season, when key injuries depleted an already young group.

"We added a lot of talent, a lot of smart guys," Smith said. "We've all mixed in pretty well. I'm excited about the group we have and what we can do."

FIELDS REPORT

The Bears traded up in the first round to take Justin Fields with the 11th overall pick, eager to make the former Ohio State star the kind of fixture at quarterback that Rodgers has been for their biggest rival. Not so eager to give the rookie the job right away, though.

Impatient Bears fans have been grumbling about the decision to start veteran Andy Dalton for at least the first few games. Dalton is a three-time Pro Bowl pick entering his 11th year in the NFL.

"We're very confident in him and where he's at," general manager Ryan Pace said, "so there's no need for us to rush Justin."

TALK SOUP

The one other team in the division that could always match the stability at quarterback of the Packers with Rodgers - if not quite in stature - was the Lions.

Not now, with Matthew Stafford in Los Angeles and Jared Goff making his Detroit debut following a headliner of an off-season trade.

Goff was a No. 1 overall draft pick himself, with a 42-20 record as a starter over the past four years, but his consistency and production have dropped off, raising questions about whether he's the long-term answer for the Lions.

What would help Goff immensely is the continued development of running back D'Andre Swift after a promising rookie season in 2020. The Lions added former Packers backup Jamaal Williams, too.

The annual external doubts about one of the league's long-time losers are also, naturally, part of fiery new coach Dan Campbell's motivation plan. The Lions are 14-33-1 over the past three years.

"If you are a true competitor, it gives you a kick in the rear," Campbell said. "I like that, and I know guys that we brought in here, they love it."

Bats in your belfry? Try some one-way exit doors

With bats soon leaving their summer roosts to return to their winter hibernation sites, the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources (DNR) reminds Wisconsinites that fall is a good time to safely and humanely evict bats from homes and buildings.

Now through May 31, before the nursing and baby bat protection period begins, you can keep bats out of homes and buildings by following best practices.

The DNR provides do-it-yourself instructions and information on hiring a professional to get bats out of buildings humanely through a process called exclusion. Exclusion includes sealing a building except for primary exits, outfitted with one-way doors that let bats exit and prevent re-entry.

“While the goal of the DNR’s bat program is to protect bats and bat habitat, we understand that bats don’t need to share living spaces with humans,” said Heather Kaarakka, DNR Conservation Biologist. “Our online resources help people effectively and safely exclude bats or hire a wildlife control operator.”

Exclusions are prohibited June 1 through Aug. 15 to protect Wisconsin’s little brown and big brown bats during their maternity seasons.

Exclusions occurring during this period will separate mothers from their flightless pups, leaving the pups to die of starvation and potentially exacerbating the homeowners’ bat problem as frantic bat mothers search for an opening to reach their pups.

Effective exclusion efforts should target time periods in the fall and spring where temperatures are consistently above 50°F as bats are generally active at temperatures above that level.

To permanently and humanely evict bats from structures, one-way venting devices should be installed at the primary entries/exits for 7-10 days in addition to sealing up secondary holes, cracks and crevices that may allow entry into a structure.

Primary entries should be closed after a one-way venting device has been in place for 7-10 days and bats are out of the building.

Protections For Bat Populations Decimated By White-Nose Syndrome

Little brown bats and big brown bats, along with northern long-eared bats and eastern pipistrelles (also known as tricolored bats), are all threatened species in Wisconsin and receive legal protection, including the ban on exclusions during maternity seasons. These four bat species hibernate in caves and mines in the winter and have been decimated by the deadly bat disease white-nose syndrome.

White-nose syndrome does not affect humans but causes a fungus to grow on bats’ noses and skin, disrupting normal hibernation patterns and burning up the energy needed to get them through long Wisconsin winters.

Although bat roosts are protected during the maternity period

(June 1-Aug 15), exclusions may be completed if the landowner feels the bats pose a health or safety risk to humans and a health exemption form is submitted.

Exclusions are allowed during the maternity season in hospitals, medical clinics, daycare centers, nursing homes, assisted living facilities and restaurants without a health exemption form.

Build A Bat House To Provide An Alternate Roost

Bats can reduce pesky mosquitoes and night-flying insects around your home and garden. Help keep these valuable mammals in your area by building a house for roosting and to raise their young.

Late winter/early spring is a good time to provide an alternative roost – a bat house – in the general vicinity of where bats enter the building.

Find a supply list, instructions and how-to videos on the DNR’s Build A Bat House webpage.

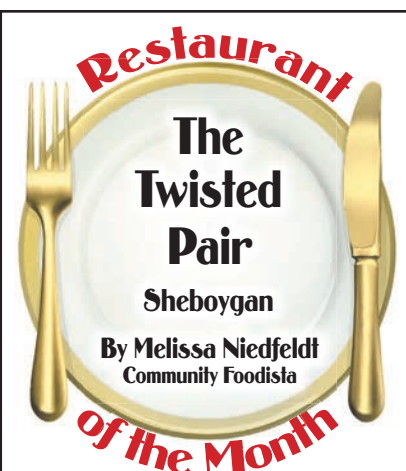

“By installing a bat house before you exclude bats, you increase the odds of maintaining the beneficial insect-eating service the bats provide in your backyard,” said J.

Paul White, DNR Bat Team Lead.

A single bat can eat up to 1,000 mosquito-sized insects an hour and the equivalent of its bodyweight every night.

University of Wisconsin-Madison research analyzing bat guano (manure) collected at sites across Wisconsin confirms that bats consumed 17 distinct types of mosquitoes, including nine species known to carry West Nile virus.

Learn more about Wisconsin bats and how to help them on the Wisconsin DNR’s Saving Wisconsin’s Bats webpage.

It’s a twist of fate that Sean and Tutts found their place in time. If the walls could talk you may find out great stories of what the previous establishment was famously known as, Schultz Tap aka Tillies. People didn’t always know where Beechwood was, but if you said Tillies they knew exactly what you were talking about. Sean fell in love, got the business started and now the rest is another part of history. The 1889 establishment was restored and a new bar and restaurant business began for owners, Sean and Tutts, of The Twisted Pair in Beechwood on February 1st, 2021. Let the legend continue for fun times and great stories!

People come from all over! They cannot believe how many places they have heard people are coming from. Milwaukee is so far the furthest. The atmosphere and team has a great impact on customers and their experience. This bar and restaurant is amazing and has some definite charm, with a capacity of 189, they can offer you private parties in their 2nd dining area and bar room and there is a wonderful outdoor seating area overlooking Beechwood Lake.

Chef Jeff and owners created the menu and have specials that they will advertise on Facebook Sean and Tutts believe in supporting the locals so Gibbsville Cheese (Sheboygan Falls) and Sartori Cheese (Plymouth) is their go to. They receive their vegetables from Springdale Farm (Plymouth) and baked goods from City Bakery (Sheboygan). There is room for growth for locals as they are planning to add menu items soon as well.

To start, my dinner date and I had the Cheese Curds, which is local cheese deep fried in their homemade batter. These were so full of cheese and melt in your mouth delicious! Also, and while it might sound kind of warped,

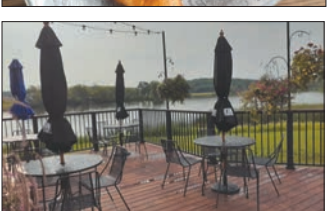

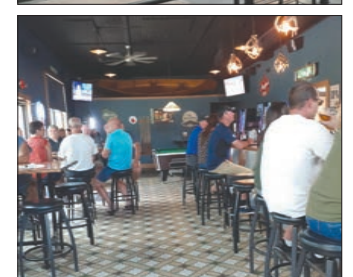

I tried a signature cocktail called a Strawberry Jalapeno Press, it is Strawberry Vodka muddled with mint and Jalapeno finished with club and sweet soda. The pairing of strawberry and jalapeno was mildly intimidating! No bite, just ZING!

They say some are afraid to try the Twisted Pair Pizza, which is Sous Chef Brad’s twist on pizza, which features fig preserves, pancetta, arugula, pears, caramelized onion, and goat cheese. It is such a great choice for those looking for something A LOT different! The arugula compliments the sweetness of the preserves well and the crust is so light and buttery; soft yet crispy. It is homemade and FRESH! I thought it was wickedly delicious and fell in love!

If live music is what you’re searching for they also host a band every Sunday during the summer and in winter the focus will be on Packers football. However, they are thinking of having bands during dinner 4-9pm Friday or/and Saturday. So take a trip out to Beechwood to find out for yourselves if The Twisted Pair has a twisted “pair” or is just twisted!?

The Twisted Pair Bar & Restaurant is open Tue-Wed 11am-12am, Friday & Saturday 11am-2:30am, Sunday 11am-10pm, and closed on Monday. N1502W County Rd A, Kewaskum WI 53040. You can find out more at <https://www.facebook.com/TwistedPairBeechwood/>

by Jeff Pederson

The goal of any musician, no matter the stature, is to have the music they perform heard in front of as large of an audience as possible.

For the members of Sheboygan Falls-based band Past Curfew, that kind of opportunity is just about to come their way.

The six-member band, which includes all Sheboygan County residents, was booked to play at Summerfest, dubbed “The World’s Largest Music Festival,” Saturday, Sept. 4 in downtown Milwaukee.

Past Curfew earned a spot to play at the Uline Warehouse Rock Stage from 1 p.m. to 2:30 p.m. after going through an audition process, which left Summerfest organizers impressed of Sheboygan said. “We worked with Double Vision Films, LLC to create a demo video in February and then submitted it online. We were thrilled when we got a call back.

“This will be the first time any of the members of Past Curfew have played at Summerfest, so it is quite exciting for all of us” she said.

In addition to Pantel, Past Curfew is comprised of vocalist Nellie Schmitt of Sheboygan Falls, lead guitarist and vocalist Justin Shininger of Random Lake, bass guitarist Jerry Geibel of Sheboygan, drummer Glenn Zeinemann of Sheboygan, keyboardist and vocalist Mike Lorge of Sheboygan Falls and Josh Zimmerman of Sheboygan Falls, who handles sound and light duties for the band.

According to Pangel, Past Curfew has been performing together for the past year and typically plays to a broad audience by presenting an eclectic mix of popular music.

“We could best be described as a cover band that plays hits from the 1950s to today from a variety of genres,” Pantel said.

“We primarily play in and around Sheboygan County and play roughly 20 shows a year.

“We’ve played around 15 shows this year and have more scheduled,” she said.

For those planning to attend Summerfest and take in Past Curfew’s performance, the Uline Warehouse Rock Stage can be found on the north side of the Summerfest grounds, which are located adjacent to Lake Michigan.

“The Uline Warehouse Stage is the northern-most stage on the grounds,” Pantel said. “If people are interested in checking out what the stage and viewing area looks like, they can check it out at <https://www.summerfest.com/uline-warehouse/>.”

Pantel says Past Curfew was scheduled to play a full set of songs during their one hour and 30 minute performance.

Past Curfew performed during a special time period on when Summerfest was offering free admission to the grounds.

“That is a nice extra benefit for any interested in coming to check us out at Summerfest for free admission.”

First held in 1968, Summerfest is located at Henry Maier Fes-

Making Spirits Bright gifts $30,000 to Food Bank

SHEBOYGAN — Going into the tenth year of partnership, Making Spirits Bright donated $30,000 to Sheboygan County Food Bank to help purchase healthy food for our neighbors in need.

From the day after Thanksgiving through December each year, Sheboygan County Rotary Clubs provide Making Spirits Bright – a drive-through holiday lights show in Evergreen Park benefiting Sheboygan County Food Bank by collecting non-perishable food items. Over 730,000 pounds of food and personal care items have been collected since the event started in 2012.

In addition to the annual event partnership, Sheboygan County Food Bank has received monetary donations from Making Spirits Bright over the years to obtain critical equipment and supplies, such as multiple trucks and healthy foods, and greatly appreciates the organization's continued support. With the recent $30,000 gift, Making Spirits Bright has donated a grand total of $115,000 to Sheboygan County Food Bank.

"Making Spirits Bright has been a key partner for Sheboygan County Food Bank for nearly a decade. We rely on their event and food drive to stock our shelves and help us make sure no one in Sheboygan County goes hungry year-round. Band's bucket list dream comes true tival Park, adjacent to Lake Michigan and Milwaukee's central business district.

Summerfest attracts approximately 800,000 people each year, promoting itself as "The World's Largest Music Festival," a title which was certified by Guinness World Records in 1999.

During Summerfest, the 75-acre (30-hectare) park traditionally hosts performances over 11 days.

The festival includes 12 stages with over 1,000 performances. The performers include local and nationally known music talent from various genres, performing throughout the grounds from noon to midnight, including the 23,000-capacity American Family Insurance Amphitheater.

Since 2004, nearly $150 million has been invested into Henry Maier Festival Park, including permanent stages, bars, production space, VIP amenities and other infrastructure.

Summerfest also showcases a wide variety of food from many Milwaukee-area restaurants. Other Summerfest attractions include shopping vendors, fireworks, family activities, and more.

Summerfest is operated by Milwaukee World Festival, Inc. a non-profit organization, which is governed by a volunteer board of directors.

Summerfest was not held in 2020 due to the COVID-19 pandemic and was pushed back from its typical late June-early July run to early September this year.

In its 50-plus year history, Summerfest has hosted a variety of well-known artists, including Paul McCartney, The Rolling Stones, KISS, Tina Turner, Metallica, Whitney Houston, Stevie Wonder, Kenny Chesney, Aerosmith, Bruno Mars, Lady Gaga, and Dave Matthews Band.

While the cool thing to say is that Past Curfew is approaching their Summerfest performance as just another show, but Pantel admits that is pretty hard to do.

"Most people that play music have this on their bucket list and we're all extremely excited to have the opportunity to play at the largest music festival in the United States this year," Pantel said.

Due to the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic, Summerfest is requiring a completed vaccination card or proof of negative test for entry to the grounds this year.

For more information about Past Curfew and a schedule of upcoming shows, visit the band's Facebook page at Facebook.com/Past-CurfewBand.WI or check out the website PastCurfewBand.com.

Wild horse adoptions scheduled

The Bureau of Land Management is holding a wild horse and burro placement event, offering approximately 60 excess animals gathered from western rangelands at the Washington County Fair Park, in West Bend, Wisconsin.

Adoptions and sales will be held by appointment only from 8 a.m. - 5 p.m. CST on Friday, Sept. 10 and from 8 a.m. - 1 p.m. CST on Saturday, Sept. 11. On both days, placements will occur in one-hour increments (five appointments per hour). Appointments can be made via email at BLM_ES_NSDO_WHB@blm.gov. The BLM requests all potential buyers and adopters to disclose their top three preferred times slots when making appointments.

BLM's Adoption Incentive Program was designed to help improve rangeland health in overpopulated herd management areas in the western states and to save taxpayer costs for animals held at off-range holding facilities. Through this program, qualified adopters are eligible to receive $500 within 60 days of adoption and $500 upon title issuance for an untrained wild horse or burro. The incentive is available for all untrained animals eligible for adoption with an adoption fee of $25 per animal.

Animals that are over ten years old or younger who were unsuccessfully adopted out to new homes three times may be sold. BLM staff will be available to identify these animals to interested, qualified buyers. Purchasers will receive immediate ownership of the animals.

To learn more about BLM's Wild Horse and Burro program, visit <https://www.blm.gov/whb>.

Milkweed plantings aid Monarchs

Wisconsin monarchs looking for milkweed to lay their eggs on will now find hundreds of thousands of more acres of habitat in Wisconsin thanks to voluntary efforts by organizations and individuals statewide, including representatives from the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources (DNR).

The Wisconsin Monarch Collaborative formed in 2018 to voluntarily plant milkweed and wildflowers on a massive scale. The collaborative's efforts are essential to help reverse an 80% decline over the last 20 years in the Eastern population of monarchs that breed and migrate through Wisconsin and 15 other states.

Participants in the Wisconsin Monarch Collaborative include DNR representatives and other state and federal agencies, utilities, transportation groups, agriculture groups, university researchers, conservation groups and nature centers.

The group advises that adding and maintaining habitat is an important factor in reversing monarchs' decline. The group encourages planting and maintaining native milkweed and native wildflowers. Milkweeds are the only source of food monarch caterpillars will eat and adult monarchs feed on a wide variety of native wildflowers.

Collaborative members committed to voluntarily adding 120 million new stems of milkweed, along with other native wildflowers, as Wisconsin's contribution to a larger regional strategy.

The group's "Key Accomplishments 2018-2020" report released earlier this year shows monarch habitat taking flight in Wisconsin, reflecting these accomplishments:

105,000 reported new or enhanced acres of habitat, the bulk of it on DNR State Natural Areas

205,268 acres enrolled in the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Conservation Reserve Program

822 monarch specific conservation projects assisted by Pheasants Forever Farm Bill Biologists Six major demonstration sites to teach and inspire.

85,000 copies of Wisconsin plant list for monarchs sent directly to Wisconsin homes

184 Wisconsin organizations and individuals have taken the pledge to help monarchs

"Wisconsin Monarch Collaborative members expect that the pace of milkweeds and nectar plants added to Wisconsin's landscape will pick up," Jones said. The Wisconsin Monarch Collaborative's website contains Wisconsin-specific information on how to create habitat on farms, rights-of-ways, urban areas and protected lands.

Did you know that more people are born in September than any other month of the year?

Four of our immediate family members have birthdays in September.

The first Monday in September is Labor Day. The day which we honor the people of our Country who work to make it the great place that it is.

September fourth is the day our granddaughter Lily was born. The year she was born, her birth fell on Labor Day. This year she will be fifteen.

On September Eleventh, Patriot's Day, we will remember the lives lost that day. As Stan and I watched the events replayed on TV, our only thoughts were that it is hard to imagine that there are people capable of horrendous acts of terrorism.

At the end of August, granddaughters Katy and Claire had birthdays. Claire's first birthday party was on Saturday. Claire had an Oscar the Grouch themed celebration. Everyone who knows Claire, knows that getting a smile from her pretty face is a rare occurrence - so, Oscar the Grouch was the perfect party theme. Her sister Julia and Travis, Claire's Daddy, made her a dark chocolate birthday cake with green frosting and big googly eyes. Her Daddy made us a fish fry with Walleye he caught on Lake Erie. Of course, one of Claire's birthday gifts was her first fishing pole. We hope she won't be a "tom boy", but she will definitely go fishing with her Daddy.

The following day we went to Green Bay to celebrate Katy's eleventh birthday. Katy and her Dad are big Harry Potter fans. Katy wore a cape and Harry Potter shirt on her birthday and of course, she carried a wand. She had a Harry Potter ice cream cake, Bertie Botts Beans (Jelly Bellies), plates and napkins and banners and received many Harry Potter themed gifts.

One of the highlights of the day for me was swimming in their pool for the last time this Summer. I didn't get to a beach this Summer, one of my favorite things to do, but at least I got some pool time.

We ended the month of August by visiting the Manitowoc County Fair. This was a first for the eight of us who went on opening day of the fair. It is a lot smaller than other fairs I've visited, but still with the same attractions. We enjoyed looking at all the animals and then ate our way through the fairgrounds. Cream Puffs, fried vegetables and homemade potato chips covered with melted cheese and bacon bits! Thankfully, we only do this once a year.

There are nine letters in the month of September, and it is the ninth month of the year.

Take a second look at the following recipes. I have always been thankful that every one of our children are good cooks and will always be able to feed themselves. Our oldest son, Stan, Jr., created the first recipe, a casserole. I made it last week and plan to keep this recipe.

Assemble all the ingredients first and then layer it in a casserole dish. An easy and economical meal. The casserole was just the right size for four people or two people to enjoy for 2 meals.

The second recipe is for corn on the cob made in the microwave. Once you've made it in the microwave, you will never want to boil corn on the stove again.

- Marge

Chicken and Mashed Potato Casserole
Serves 4

Frozen Sour Cream and Chives Mashed Potatoes in a 24-

ounce tray
Popcorn Chicken
- frozen in a bag
1 envelope chicken gravy
1 can of whole kernel corn or 2 cobs of fresh corn scraped off cobs - (Fresh corn tastes best)

Shredded cheddar cheese - about 1 cup
Prepare mashed potatoes in microwave according to directions on box of frozen mashed potatoes. Spread potatoes on bottom of casserole. Arrange about half the bag of frozen popcorn chicken on top of the mashed potatoes.

Prepare gravy in saucepan on top of stove. After heated, pour on top of chicken in casserole.

Drain can of corn or prepare corn cobs in microwave, scrape off cobs and put corn on top of chicken in casserole.

Sprinkle shredded cheddar cheese on top of casserole.

Bake casserole in preheated 350-degree oven for 30 minutes. Serve immediately.

Microwave Corn on the Cob

Cut stem end off cob of corn. Leave husks intact.

Put two cobs at a time in microwave. Heat one cob for two minutes or two cobs for four minutes. Remove cobs from microwave - they will be very hot! Grab tassel end of corn with a hot pad & squeeze corn out of husk. All silks are removed this way.

Cool slightly before eating or if desired, scrape corn off cob using a knife.

Because Katy had a Harry Potter themed birthday party - Her Mother made Harry Potter Butterbeer. If you've read any of the books or watched the movies, you know what butterbeer is.

Harry Potter Butterbeer Recipe - non-alcoholic

2 liter bottle cream soda, chilled
1/4 teaspoon caramel extract

1/4 teaspoon butter extract
- if you can't find caramel extract, just use the butter extract.
Cream Topping
1 cup heavy cream or use whipped cream in a can
1/2 cup butterscotch topping (for ice cream)
1/4 cup powdered sugar

In large bowl, whip heavy cream until it forms stiff peaks.

Add butterscotch topping and powdered sugar

Mix the caramel and butter extracts with the cream soda and then pour the mixture into clear cups or mugs. Top with butterscotch cream topping and enjoy!

Katy's mom mixed the cream soda and extracts in a punch bowl. We then topped our glass with the cream and butterscotch topping and powdered sugar before drinking.

Corn Pie

Makes 6 servings

1 1/2 cups finely crushed cracker crumbs
1/2 cup melted butter
2 tablespoons butter
1 1/4 cups milk
2 cups fresh raw corn (2 or 3 ears)
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons flour
1/2 teaspoon onion salt (optional)
2 eggs, beaten

Combine crumbs and melted butter. Reserve 1/2 cup for topping. Line a 9-inch pie pan with remaining crumbs.

Combine butter, 1 cup milk, corn and salt. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat and cook 3 minutes.

Add flour to remaining 1/4 cup milk; mix to smooth paste. Add slowly to hot milk-corn mixture, stirring constantly. Cook for 2 to 3 minutes, or until thick.

Cool slightly. Add onion salt. Add eggs, slowly, stirring constantly.

Pour into crumb-lined pan. Sprinkle remaining crumbs over top. Bake in 400-degree oven for 20 minutes.

DNR board chief's refusal to leave sparks wolf hunt cry

Frederick Prehn, a Wausau dentist, is causing pain for Democrats and those who oppose a big wolf hunt.

The controversy surrounding the disputed member of the Natural Resources Board has led to a lawsuit from Democratic Attorney General Josh Kaul. Kaul's lawsuit seeks to force Prehn from the board that controls policy of the Department of Natural Resources.

This comes after the Wausau dentist declined calls to step down more than three months after his

THE CAPITOL REPORT

by WisPolitics.com

six-year appointment ended.

Prehn, the board chair, has cited precedence that allows board members to continue serving until their replacement has been confirmed by the state Senate.

But Kaul argued in the Dane County lawsuit that state law on DNR board appointments doesn't include such a holdover period.

The suit notes other statutes specifically say appointees may continue serving after their term and until a successor is elected or confirmed. But the Department of Justice argued in the suit that state law specific to the DNR board doesn't include similar language.

"Dr. Prehn's term is over. His attempt to remain on the Natural Resources Board indefinitely, in defiance of the will of the voters, is fundamentally undemocratic," Kaul said in announcing the suit.

Former GOP Gov. Scott Walker appointed Prehn to the board, and his six-year term expired May 1. But the GOP-run state Senate has yet to take action on Gov. Tony Evers' appointment of Sandra Nass, an Ashland teacher, to replace Prehn. While he continues to serve, the board remains controlled 4-3 by Walker appointees.

Several environmental groups had urged Kaul to take legal action to force Prehn from the board. Kaul's suit seeks an order taking Prehn from the board or a declaratory judgment that Evers may remove him.

The Natural Resources Board earlier approved a state wolf hunt quota of 300 wolves for the November hunt this year — more than twice what agency staff had recommended.

Gray wolves were delisted from the Endangered Species Act on Jan. 4, 2021, and the DNR originally planned to wait until fall 2021 for the first hunt since 2014. But it went forward with a February hunt after a Jefferson County judge ordered the agency to hold one before month's end.

For the February hunt, there was a quota of 119 kills for state-licensed hunters with tribes able to harvest 81. The number of state-licensed kills came in at 281 as hunters quickly blew past the quota, and the hunt was cut short.

Agency staff recommended a quota of 130 wolves for this fall. DNR's Fish Wildlife and Parks Division Administrator Keith Warnke said the department arrived at that number because it would allow hunters to harvest wolves without changing the population.

"We don't know what the population is right now. We don't have an estimate," Warnke said. "We don't want to change the population, and that's the key."

Warnke also said his division has received about 27,000 wolf kill permit requests so far for the November hunt.

DNR Secretary Preston Cole slammed Prehn for his vote in favor of the new quota.

"So now, for the viewing public, you get a sense as to why the chair chose to stay," Cole said. "I wonder what the vote would have been with Sandy Nass sitting in that chair. You now know why he's sitting in this chair."

Prehn countered the vote would have been the same regardless of his decision to remain in his current role and slammed Cole for what he said was an out-of-order comment.

Cole said he stands behind the 130 quota recommendation from the DNR because that's the number science backs.

Some board members advocated for quotas as high as 504 wolves. They argued tribal hunters would accept roughly 40 percent of the kills allotted in Wisconsin, but wouldn't actually harvest them. Given that, they said a quota of 504 would mean only about 300 wolves would be killed.

A bridge over water troubles: county, farmers disagree on replacement size to limit flooding

by Ian Johanson

If there's one word most used to describe the nation's infrastructure, it's "crumbling."

"After decades of disinvestment, our roads, bridges, and water systems are crumbling," a March fact sheet from the White House says. "Gov. Evers ran for governor on a commitment to fix our crumbling roads and infrastructure," reads Evers' transportation and infrastructure plan web page.

A small, 92 year old bridge over a tiny stream east of Hingham on County Road W shows just how literal that "crumbling" is. One guardrail wobbles with a gentle push, attachment bolts broken and suspended mid-air. The bridge sides are fragmented and well, crumbling, like hunks of stale bread.

Everyone agrees the bridge needs to be replaced, but a dispute has arisen between nearby land-owners, six of whom are farmers, and Sheboygan County on just how big the replacement should be, illustrating that doing what obviously needs to be done with infrastructure does not mean it will be easy.

Despite its small size, the bridge plays a big role in draining thousands of acres. Floodwaters have three times in the past 50 years risen to overflow the road, according to Carl TenPas, one of the land-owners. The property owners say the bridge opening is simply too narrow to handle periodic high water loads without excessively backing up and flooding the surrounding land. This decreases farmable acreage by an estimated 14 total acres, which equates to over $1 million in corn over a 100 year life span of the bridge, according to Carl's brother Jeff TenPas. "The bridge ain't big enough!" Carl says emphatically.

The county agrees on the need for a bigger bridge, but the plan is for a 28 foot replacement (with a 26.5' opening), compared to the current 20 feet. The TenPas brothers are pushing for a 40 footer.

Greg Schnell, the Transportation Director for the Sheboygan County Transportation Department, says the new design far exceeds the DNR's requirements for a 12.8 foot bank flow width, and that the department upped the design to 28 feet from 24 (21.5' opening) based upon local neighbors' input.

Farmers aren't the only ones with a financial interest, Schnell points out in an email to Jeff. Federal funding will cover 80% of the cost of a 28 foot bridge, but 0% of the difference between the approved size and a 40 foot bridge, with Sheboygan County taxpayers picking up the difference, which would be around $100,000 for starters, with additional costs likely. There is even the risk that the delays involved with a bigger design might jeopardize the entire federal funding for the project, Schnell says.

Jeff suggests full hydraulic modeling be done on a 40-foot replacement. But Schnell says it would not be within the scope of a design contract to do full hydraulic and hydrological analyses for additional alternatives, plus the county is responsible for paying for all design work. And anyway, Schnell says, a 40-foot bridge would increase the downstream flood level and "could place an

Two women won the Nobel Prize in Physics. One, Maria Curie in 1903 for the discovery of radioactivity; the other, Maria Goeppert Mayer in 1963 for the discoveries of how atoms are put together.

Farm owners urge county to assess flood impacts
when fixing bridges

BRIDGE from 17

added burden on your neighbors with property to the south." Jeff argues that channel cleaning downstream would eliminate downstream flooding from a bigger bridge.

"No bridge possible is going to reduce the impact [on farmable acreage] to zero," Jeff acknowledged in a reply to Schnell. "But the impacts can be reduced in a reasonable way to a reasonable extent. This should be justification enough for the state and feds to cover their share of whatever is agreed to. The point of comparison for county bridge costs is crop losses."

"We urge the County to take a proactive approach when replacing bridges and culverts to look into the backwater effects of bridges and protect our ag lands from the false economy of undersized bridges. Then restore natural drainage and decrease environmental damage from these 100 year old bridge design decisions," Jeff said.

Meanwhile the deadline looms for one property owner to sell the county a tiny piece of land (.03 acres) which is required for the project. They're holding off for now, for "leverage" said Carl. But the county could ultimately play their ace-card, Carl acknowledged: taking the land piece by eminent domain.

Schnell said the county would prefer not to use that tool, and it would be the first use in a long time. "We all have to live in this community and like to work with people as much as possible," Schnell said.

For now, an uneasy standoff while one more bridge crumb drops into the water below.

NOBEL from 18

Prize in the field of Physiology and Medicine. Best-known are Rosalyn Yalow (1977) for work in radioisotope tracing and Barbara McClintock (1983) for her efforts in genetics.

Pearl Buck is one of twelve women awarded the Nobel Prize in Literature. Her 1938 Nobel Prize cited her "rich and truly epic description of peasant life in China." Her best-known book is The Good Earth, which also won the Pulitzer Prize.

The first and only woman to win the Nobel Prize in Economic Sciences is Elinor Ostrom (2009) "for her analysis of how common property could be managed by groups using it."

Fifteen women have won the Nobel Peace Prize. The most recognized is Jane Addams (1931), founder of Hull House in Chicago, and Mother Teresa (1979), a native Albanian nun who founded missions in India, starting in Calcutta.

The Nobel Prizes in Chemistry, Physics, Physiology/Medicine, Literature, and Economic Science are awarded annually in Stockholm by the Royal Swedish Academy of Science. The more famous Nobel Peace Prize is awarded annually in Oslo, Norway on December 10, the anniversary of Nobel's death. The King and Queen of Norway attend.

There is one woman that history now recognizes got cheated out of a Nobel Prize. That would be Lise Meitner. Born in Austria in 1878, Meitner worked with Otto Hahn at the Kaiser Wilhelm Institute in Berlin, Germany.

When Hitler came to power in 1933, Lise Meitner, born of Jewish parents, was at first protected by her Austrian citizenship. She made a daring undercover escape to the Netherlands, then traveled to neutral Sweden.

Lise Meitner corresponded with Otto Hahn and the two met in Copenhagen in November 1938. They planned to carry out a new round of experiments on the fission of uranium, but Meitner could not go back to Nazi Germany, so the experiment was done by Otto Hahn and Fritz Strassmann.

It was Lise Meitner and her nephew Otto Frisch, who correctly interpreted the results of the experiment that detected the element barium after bombarding uranium with neutrons. Now the whole world knew that the uranium atom could be split, with a tremendous release of power, and that several neutrons were also released.

A chain reaction and the atomic bomb were now possible.

Otto Hahn was awarded the Nobel Prize in 1944. Missing from the ceremony was Lise Meitner.

BEACON MAILBAG

New Sheriff logo long overdue

To the Editor,
 There's new discussion on social media about the Sheboygan County Sheriff displaying a cartoon of a Native American wearing a war bonnet on patrol vehicles.

A 2020 Sheboygan Press article quotes our sheriff as maintaining that "there's nothing negative" about the image and that it honors Sheboygan's heritage.

But who, exactly, is being honored? Native people have fought for years to remove these caricatures as team mascots. Why?

To start, scores of studies document their negative effects on children. Exposure to these images decreases Native American students' self-esteem and increases depression and suicidal ideation.

These images also activate racial stereotypes and prejudice among White students. They do not convey honor. They are harmful and offensive.

Schools have removed these racialized images because they offend and hurt.

What message does it send when deputies cruise through neighborhoods in cars emblazoned with a stylized Native American wearing a war bonnet?

This illustrates a profound lack of perspective taking. The Sheriff's department has good intentions, but intention does not absolve consequences. Racial characterizations have no place on law enforcement vehicles.

Let's turn this into a teachable moment. Local high school students competed in developing the logo back in the 1960's. Let's sponsor a new contest that asks our students to come up with a new logo.

Teach them perspective taking. Help them learn that turning people into logos is dehumanizing and that appropriating a culture's symbols does not respect a culture but rather exploits it.

A TOUR OF BLACK RIVER

Gem of Sheboygan County
 by Jim Schultz and Beth Dippel

Black River has a history going back over a thousand years. Located in the Town of Wilson south of the Alliant Energy power plant between South 12th Street and Lake Michigan, extending to the south to include Kohler-Andrae State Park.

Much of the area remains relatively untouched with little development or commercialism. Unlike most of Sheboygan County, settled predominantly by German and Dutch immigrants who transformed the countryside from extensive forests to farms, Black River has had a different flavor from the beginning. Fishermen of English, Irish, Norwegian, and Swedish descent were among the first to come, followed by German and Dutch immigrants who farmed parts of the area, leaving much of the forest intact.

The 223 page book is filled with color photos & is available at the Research Center or online for $25 plus tax.

Take a hike: How about 2,200 miles through 14 states

by Jeff Pederson
for The Beacon

Taking on the longest hiking trail in the world would seem like a daunting task to even the most seasoned trail hiker, but not so for Sheboygan Falls resident Jonas Selk.

In fact, the 2016 Sheboygan Falls High School graduate recently joined the relatively small percentage of hikers who have completed a “thru-hike” of the entire 2,200-mile trail in one non-stop attempt.

The Appalachian National Scenic Trail, generally known as the Appalachian Trail or simply the A.T., is a marked hiking trail in the Eastern United States, extending between Springer Mountain in Georgia and Mount Katahdin in Maine.

The Appalachian Trail Conservancy describes the Appalachian Trail as the longest hiking-only trail in the world.

More than two million people are said to take a hike on part of the trail at least once each year. However, only one in four that attempt a “thru-hike” of the entire expanse of the trail are reported to actually complete the entire distance.

Although he lacked prior long-distance hiking experience, Selk was intrigued by the lure and lore of the Appalachian Trail.

“I really didn’t have any experience doing big hikes beforehand,” Selk said. “I like to travel and the trail seemed like a really fun challenge. The Appalachian Trail is the longest walking-only trail in the world, crossing 14 states and over 2,000 miles over various terrain.

“I would say that I’m a decently experienced hiker now,

JONAS SELK of Sheboygan Falls recently completed the 2,200-mile Appalachian National Scenic Trail, which is widely considered to be the longest hiking-only trail in the world.

- Submitted photo

after doing the trail,” he said.

Selk, who previously served four years in the U.S. Army and is presently seeking a career in the security field, completed his trek in four and half months, which is faster than the five-to-seven month average for completion of the entire trail.

“I started on February 24th and finished on July 11th,” Selk said. “I was very fortunate and thankful to be able to finish the whole trail.”

The trail, which was completed in 1937, is maintained by 31 trail clubs and multiple partnerships and managed by the National Park Service, United States Forest Service and the nonprofit Appalachian Trail Conservancy.

Most of the trail is in forest or wild lands, although some portions traverse towns, roads and farms. In all, the Appalachian Trail passes through 14 states, including Georgia, North Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Vermont, New Hampshire and Maine.

According to Selk, the trail provided numerous challenges over varying types of terrain and land forms.

“The terrain is fairly mixed with open fields, steep mountain climbs, river crossings, swampy areas and dense forests,” Selk said. “In some places, the trail is all boulders.

“The hard part is knowing you have a steep climb right in the morning and knowing it’s 2,000 plus miles you are walking,” he said.

He pointed to two times during his excursion where he felt like he might not make it the entire distance.

“There were only two times I thought I wouldn’t finish,” Selk said. “The first was the first week, mainly because your just starting and you say to yourself, ‘What the hell am I doing?’

“Then another came at Harper’s Ferry, which is at about 900 or so miles out, but everyone calls it the emotional halfway point because you feel like you have gone really far, but your not even half done,” he said.

Selk said he was quite lucky to not encounter any extremely severe weather that might have impeded his progress or possibly ended his trip prematurely.

“The weather was pretty favorable,” Selk said. “We did have a few thunderstorms and heavy rain, but you kind of just have to deal with that.”

In addition, Selk said the trail did not offer much in the way of predatory or aggressive animals.

However, he did run across plenty of other hikers along his adventure.

“I didn’t see much for wild-life,” Selk said. “It was squirrels, rabbits and deer mostly.

“There were plenty of people on the trail, including a lot of weekend hikers and others hiking the whole trail, he said. “It was about 50/50 walking with others that I met along the way and walking by myself.”

Selk lugged all of his possession and necessities for the hike, including a tent, in his ever-present backpack.

“I carried a tent, but there are shelters on the trail at various points that hikers share,” Selk said. “I carried my life in my backpack. I had a tent, sleeping bag, small air mattress, about two changes of clothes, and a lot of food.”

As far as eating, Selk said he never suffered from a shortage of food.

“I ate a lot actually,” Selk said. “At first, it was healthy snacks and stuff, but after a few weeks, it turned into nothing but junk because your burning more calories than your taking in.”

For those wondering about bathroom accommodations, Selk said he took whatever he could get during the 2,200-mile trek.

“There are usually privies at the shelter depending on what state,” Selk said. “Other than that, it’s find a big log or rock.”

While Selk encountered many breathtaking views and memorable locations during the trip, one particular area stood out to him.

“My favorite part was probably Maine because it has a lot of small inner-connected lakes kind of like the Northern Wisconsin, Minocqua area,” Selk said.

Although cell phone reception was never good along the trail, Selk said he was able to communicate with loved ones on occasion during his journey.

“I talked to my family and friends a bit, mostly when I was in town because reception was spotty at best on the trail,” Selk said.

he met along the way and the exhilaration of completing the entire 2,200-mile trail.

“I’d say the ultimate high point was finishing, but the many high points were all the people I met and getting to the peak of hard climbs,” Selk said.

Selk says the hike turned out to be pretty much what he expected and will rank as something he will always remember fondly.

“I would say that it was more or less what I was expecting,” Selk said. “It was a difficult challenge, but one that’s very gratifying.

“I think it was a great experience and a very enjoyable challenge that I’m glad I did,” he said.

Selk has a few words of advice for those considering following in his footsteps and taking on the longest hiking trail in the world.

“I would say if someone wants to hike the trail, do some research before, pack less than what you think you need and don’t worry about others,” Selk said. “It’s your hike. Do it how ever you want.”

Shoulder Pain?

Does your shoulder pain build up when you move it wrong or is it a sudden sharp pain shooting from your neck into your arm?

Do you have difficulty just washing your hair or even scratching your back? Have you had to give up golf because of your shoulder pain?

Nothing's worse than feeling great mentally, but physically feeling held back from life because your shoulder hurts and the pain just won't go away!

My name is Dr. Jeff Wild, owner of Wild Chiropractic. Over the past 35 years since we've opened the doors, I've seen hundreds of people with shoulder pain, frozen shoulder and rotator cuff problems leave the office pain free.

Do You Have Any of the Following Conditions?

- Frozen shoulder – one of the worst maladies known to man (and woman!)
- Adhesive capsulitis
- Rotator cuff injuries
- Arthritis
- Bursitis
- Tendonitis
- Muscle weakness
- Sharp, radiating pain
- Numbness and tingling

Shoulder Pain Is Not Just 'Old Age'

No question... if you are having shoulder pain then something is wrong. It's not normal aging to hurt all the time. Pain in your shoulder isn't just a 'sign of old age', if that was true all 360 joints in your body would hurt, since you're whole body is the same age.

Pain is your body's warning sign telling you something is wrong. Finding the problem and fixing it has got to be a top priority!

Are you suffering from shoulder and/or back pain? If so, relief may be easier than you think.

Have A Doctor Evaluate Your Shoulder For Only $29*

Just call before September 21, 2021 and here's what you'll get...

An in-depth consultation about your shoulder where I will listen...really listen. A complete nerve, muscle and spinal exam to find the "cause" of your problem. A full set of specialized x-rays to look for joint degeneration (arthritis). NOTE: These would normally cost you at least $250. A thorough analysis of your exam and x-rays so we can fix the problem.

Why wait and let it get so bad surgery becomes your only option? Call today...458-8886.

For information on the services at Wild Chiropractic, check us out at chiropractorsheboyganwi.com

*Sorry, but only the consultation (not the examination or x-rays) is allowed for those insured by Medicaid, Medicare or Medicare replacement plans.

A BALD BLUE JAY takes a nut from a local feeder. According to The Cornell Lab of Ornithology, blue jays and northern cardinals sometimes lose their head feathers all at once during the late summer and fall molt. New feathers will grow in after about a week. Rarely, the baldness may be a result of environment or nutritional factors, feather mites, or lice. – Trail camera photo by Ian Johanson

"11 Days of Peace" planned

by Lybra Olbrantz
for The Beacon

This September 11, local group Friends of Peace Park Sheboygan will be kicking-off an '11 Days of Peace' event, which is a series of pop-up mindfulness experiences placing importance on centering ones focus on the present moment. The group felt that after the last two years the collective community has shared that it's time to bring more attention to our emotional and spiritual well-being.

The kick-off event will start at 3:00PM at the Sheboygan Peace Park on Broughton Drive, along Lake Michigan, and last until 5:00PM. It will include live performances from Park Street String-Along, Raging Grannies of Sheboygan, Lisa Vihos and more local and visiting poets.

"Friends of Peace Park Sheboygan organized a similar event in 2016 after our group formed and we decided to bring the series back," said Mary Koczan, a community organizer for the group. "We have been able to host many similar events and informative sessions in the park and community. The mission is to inspire a more peaceful world through the development and beautification of the city and the Sheboygan Peace Park."

The first event started when the events committee was looking for mindfulness events to sponsor in the park to gather community members around the idea of peace. When they realized the UN International Day of Peace was coming up and it aligned with 9/11 they thought they could combine the two dates and create an educational experience for the community surrounding emotional intelligence. From there the '11 Days of Peace' event was born.

"We have a wide-ranging diverse variety of events this year including concerts, Tai Chi and Qigong sessions, a movie screening and discussion, opportunities to engage in personal meditation, family-friendly activities and ways to explore peace in nature," said Koczan.

The '11 Days of Peace' will close with a celebration of the UN International Day of Peace at Fountain Park on Tuesday September 21st. Food trucks will start lining up on 8th Street at 4:00 PM and at 5:00 PM local performers will take stage at the bandshell including: the Hmong Girls Dance Group, NAFAYA African Drumming and more local musicians, dancers and writers. Afterwards the community is asked to join a candle-light walk to the peace park.

All the activities are free and open to everyone. For a complete schedule, check out the Events page on www.she-boyganpeacepark.org or email peaceparksheboygan@gmail.com

Friends of Peace Park Sheboygan is a small group of local residents who hope to promote peace in others lives and peace in the world.

Fall Home & Garden

Fall is the time to enhance your home and garden with these great design and landscaping tips

Fresh veggies are not exclusive to spring and summer

Spring and summer may be the seasons most often associated with gardening. But people who love to grow their own vegetables can do so even when the weather outside is frightful.

Various vegetables thrive in cool temperatures. The home and garden experts at HGTV note that some winter vegetables are hardy. That means they can handle frosts in temperatures as low as 25 F without being damaged. Others are even sturdier in the face of all that winter can throw at them, capable of tolerating temperatures that dip into the high teens.

Growing vegetables in winter requires a different approach than growing in spring and summer, as gardeners must be ready to prevent damage from frost if temperatures get especially chilly. For example, the experts at Michigan State University Extension note that gardeners may need to utilize floating row covers to protect sensitive crops from frost. Gardeners interested in planting winter vegetables can speak with a local garden center professional about which crops to plant and what to do if temperatures push winter vegetable gardens to the brink.

Though it's up to gardeners what they want to plant, the following are some popular winter vegetables that can make for wonderful, fresh additions to any dinner table even after the traditional gardening season has come and gone.

- Brussel sprouts

Did you know?

When remodeling a home with the ultimate goal of making it more attractive to prospective buyers, homeowners can benefit from taking stock of current trends, including the style of home that's most popular.

According to a 2020 Homes.com survey of more than 5,000 adults across the United States, modern farmhouse is the most favored home style.

The survey asked participants to choose from a selection of styles, including mid-century modern ranch, Spanish colonial/southwest, bohemian craftsman, Italianate, French chateau, and Tudor.

The modern farmhouse style was the most popular choice in 42 of the 50 states, proving that home style preference is not beholden to geography.

Respondents gave a host of reasons for favoring the modern farmhouse look, including that the style is "aesthetically appealing but not boring" and that it looks "simple, cozy, and not too busy."

Simple ways to incorporate reclaimed wood in your home

Homes come in many sizes and styles. But whether your home is a palatial postmodern masterpiece or a cozy farmhouse, reclaimed wood can be utilized to create an awe-inspiring interior.

Reclaimed wood serves both aesthetic and practical purposes. Visually stunning, reclaimed wood also is a great way to make use of old-growth forest wood. Why is that significant? According to the United States Forest Service, just 3 percent of old-growth forest has survived into the second decade of the 21st century. Old-growth forest wood like that from long-leaf pine trees has long been touted as excellent building material, but the pine utilized today comes from trees that are cut down when they're young. Reclaimed wood taken from old or demolished homes built with old-growth forest wood offers access to this highly valued building material while also providing the environmental benefits that come with reusing existing materials.

Reclaimed wood can be incorporated into a home's interior rather easily, and the results are often stunning.

• Accent wall: Transforming a wall into an accent wall with reclaimed wood is a simple project that won't affect the existing design of a home's interior. A living room or home office can be given a whole new look with the addition of an accent wall made from reclaimed wood. Homeowners who want their bedrooms to give off the vibe of a rustic retreat can consider adding an accent wall made of reclaimed wood.

• Furniture: Reclaimed wood also can be put to use, or reuse, as furniture. A home office desk made from reclaimed wood can be both stunning and sturdy, while end tables and coffee tables made from reclaimed wood can add some unique character to a living room.

• Kitchen islands: Homeowners who aspire to have a farmhouse kitchen can consider reclaimed wood when creating their kitchen islands. Reclaimed wood can be used to make the body of the island, complete with cabinets and drawers, that sits beneath the countertop where cooks will prepare their meals.

• Storage beds: Guest rooms tend to be smaller than other rooms in the house, and that means little room for furniture like dressers. Rather than cramming lots of furniture into a small room, homeowners can utilize reclaimed wood to create storage bed frames. The frames won't take up extra space in the room, reassuring guests that they won't be spending a weekend in cramped quarters. And the rustic look of reclaimed wood storage beds can be an instant stunner when guests arrive.

Reclaimed wood can be incorporated into a home in myriad ways. This stunning, eco-friendly design choice can add instant appeal to any home.

How to pick paint for home interiors

Many components combine to define a home's interior. Some homeowners may be partial to certain styles, such as ultra modern or farmhouse, while others may opt for a more traditional look that cannot necessarily be categorized as one style or another. Though many homeowners may spend considerable time and devote a lot of energy to making their home embody a certain style, those who aren't willing to commit to a particular look can lean on one component to make a stylish statement all their own: paint.

Color can be a part of every homeowner's design arsenal. Bold colors can be used to create a stunning accent wall, while homes with open concepts often utilize color to define rooms. Homeowners who want to revitalize their home interiors can do so with paint, and this approach doesn't require homeowners to commit to a whole new design style.

Though paint may seem simple to novices, homeowners who have painted home interiors in the past recognize how complicated the process of picking paint can be. Paint retailers have a seemingly endless swatch of paint colors to choose from, and before long homeowners heads may be spinning as they try to narrow down their options. The following tips can help homeowners pick the perfect paint for their home interiors.

• Take stock, and photographs, of your current furnishings. Many interior designers rely on a simple technique when recommending color schemes to their clients. Choose a standout color from existing furnishings, such as the dominant color from a patterned decorative pillow or piece of furniture, and then look for the same shade to paint the walls. A photograph of the item can be handy when visiting the paint store.

• Lighten colors as you go up. The home renovation and design experts at HGTV recommend picking darker color values for the floor, medium color values for the walls and light values for the ceiling. This approach mimics the look of the great outdoors, where the ground tends to be darker than the trees, and the trees are darker than the blue sky.

• Utilize paint to create the vibe you want. The home renovation experts at This Old House note that colors evoke an emotional response. Cool colors like blue and green give off a relaxing vibe, which makes them ideal for bedrooms and bathrooms. Red is an intense color that can up the energy ante in any room, which can make it an option for homeowners who want to spark debate around their dinner tables.

• Give personal preference its place at the table. Though interior designers may have years of experience picking paint colors for a home and researchers may have determined how certain colors can be utilized to create a desired ambiance in a given room, ultimately homeowners are the ones who will be living in the home. So it's important that homeowners pick colors they like for their home interiors.

Paint is an inexpensive way to transform a room. Homeowners can rely on a combination of color strategies and their personal preferences as they try to decide which colors they want on their interior walls.

Signs of septic system malfunction

Homeowners recognize that their work is never done. Homes require maintenance that runs the gamut from daily tasks like cleaning kitchen countertops to more significant undertakings like replacing roofs. For many homeowners, keeping their homes running smoothly involves tending to septic systems.

Estimates from various sources indicate that roughly one in five homes in the United States has a septic system. Homeowners who live in areas with regional sewage systems may not give much thought to the operation and maintenance of their wastewater and disposal system. But that responsibility typically rests squarely on the shoulders of homeowners whose homes have septic systems. Homeowners should know that recognizing signs of septic system malfunction is vital to avoiding potentially costly, messy accidents that can put the health of humans and local wildlife in jeopardy.

What happens when a septic system malfunctions?

The Washington State Department of Health notes that a malfunctioning septic system is a threat to the health of both humans and animals as well as the environment. When a septic system is malfunctioning, untreated sewage can be released and end up in places where it shouldn't be, such as groundwater, surface water and marine water. That's true even if it's not visible to the naked eye. Humans and animals are in danger when septic systems malfunction because untreated sewage contains pathogens and other contaminants that can make them sick.

What are the signs of a malfunctioning septic system?

The DOH of Washington State notes that properly maintained septic systems should provide reliable service for many years. Part of that maintenance is keeping an eye out for these signs that suggest a system is malfunctioning or failing:

- Water and sewage from toilets, drains and sinks is backing up into the home
- Bathtubs, showers, and sinks drain very slowly
- Gurgling sounds are coming from the plumbing system

• Standing water or damp spots near the septic tank or drain field

- Bad odors around the septic tank or drain field
- Bright green, spongy lush grass over the septic tank or drain field, even during dry weather

• Algal blooms in nearby ponds or lakes

- High levels of nitrates or coliform bacteria in water wells
- Homeowners with septic systems should make tending to those systems part of their routine home maintenance.

Pre-winter perennial pruning pointers

Foliage and football might be two things people instantly associate with fall, but there's more to this beloved season than brightly colored leaves and action on the gridiron.

Gardeners know that spring is an ideal time to plan and plant their favorite flowers and most flavorful fruits and vegetables. However, seasoned gardeners know that gardening is a year-round commitment. Pruning is one of the keys to keeping perennials coming back for years to come, and fall is an ideal time to take on this important task.

Pruning perennials in the fall is not a one-size-fits-all endeavor. According to the Old Farmer's Almanac, some perennials can be cut down after the first killing frost, while others can be left to benefit wildlife, including birds and insects. Understanding pruning and when to do it this fall can help gardeners lay a strong foundation for their gardens that will benefit them next spring.

Why should some perennials be pruned?

The College of Agricultural

Sciences at Pennsylvania State University notes that perennials that have become diseased or infested with insects are pruned to prevent those problems from resurfacing in the spring. In addition, according to the Old Farmer's Almanac, many herbaceous perennials have old foliage and dying stems after several hard frosts. If dead foliage or dying stems aren't pruned, disease, slugs and other pests can overwinter in the plants. Cutting these plants down to the ground after several hard frosts allows the base of the plant to remain dormant over the winter but makes the plant less hospitable to disease and insects.

Which perennials should I prune?

The first step to pruning perennials is to recognize which need to be pruned and which can be left intact for the winter. The Old Farmer's Almanac notes that bee balm and phlox are prone to powdery mildew and should be cut back once they're gone. Hostas harbor slug eggs, so they, too, should be pruned after a hard frost. Hosta leaves that have

How to create the perfect sunroom for lounging

As fall inches closer to winter, it's not uncommon for people to look to the coming cold with a degree of lament. Spring, summer and fall provide ample opportunities to enjoy the great outdoors, but such chances are few and far between once the winter freeze settles in. Though winter might compel the masses to huddle up inside, there's still a way to take in the great outdoors on cold winter days and nights.

It might not prove an exact substitute for summer nights around the firepit, but a sunroom affords homeowners a chance to marvel at snowy winter landscapes without venturing out into the cold. Sometimes referred to as "all-season rooms," sunrooms can make for a great retreat on quiet summer mornings or crisp autumn afternoons. Sunrooms can be treated as blank canvasses, which makes decorating them more fun. But a few tricks of the trade can help homeowners turn their blank canvasses into welcoming spaces to take in all that nature has to offer throughout the year.

• Define the purpose. The experts at Better Homes & Gardens recommend homeowners decide how they want to use the sunroom before they begin decorating it. When the weather gets too chilly to dine outside, will the sunroom serve as an alternative dining space in the same way patios and decks do during the warm weather? Or do homeowners want to turn their sunrooms into reading rooms? Though it's possible to make sunrooms multipurpose spaces, it may be hard to create a relaxing vibe in rooms that are too crowded with furnishings or too busy. Defining how the space will be used also makes it easier when shopping for furnishings.

• Define when the room will be used. In addition to defining how the room will be

Creating the perfect sunroom for year-round bliss

SUNROOM from 46

used, homeowners should give ample consideration to when the room will be used. A year-round sunroom will need to be heated, while a three-season sunroom likely won't require heating. Cooling might be a concern on hot summer afternoons, but many homeowners will likely spend such days outside anyway, so cooling the room may be as simple as installing a ceiling fan and ensuring windows can be opened to let fresh air in. Homeowners who want a year-round sunroom should install insulated glass to keep the room even warmer when the mercury dips.

• Opt for bright colors. Bright colors can make sunrooms feel all the more inviting and make for a perfect match with all the natural light already in the room. The renovation experts at HGTV note that white walls and ceilings can maximize the warm illumination of the natural light that will be pouring in from the floor-to-ceiling windows. Better Homes & Gardens adds that brightly colored cushions, pillows and area rugs with similarly hued colors and patterns can add visual interest and texture to a sunroom.

• Make use of a view. Homeowners needn't direct too much of their focus on decor if their sunrooms come with a view. Art on the walls and other decorative items around the room are less important if a sunroom affords a view of the ocean or a lake or dense woods that attract local wildlife. In rooms with a view, arrange furniture so residents and guests can comfortably look outward and take in all the surround landscape has to offer.

Sunrooms are a great place to take in nature no matter the weather.
