County administrator promotes benefits of local sales tax

by Emmitt B. Feldner of The Review staff

SHEBOYGAN – In seven years, the county’s half-percent sales tax has helped the county and its municipalities maintain roads at a manageable pace while reducing the county’s debt and reliance on property tax revenue.

Those were the key points of County Administrator Alayne Krause’s annual report on the sales tax at the County Board’s May 21 meeting.

“Without having a sales tax, our (property) tax rate would be increasing, our debt would be increasing and other county departments,” would be suffering cutbacks to their budgets to keep the county budget balanced, Krause observed.

Since it was implemented in 2017, the county has received more than $80 million in sales tax revenue. The annual sales tax revenue has increased every year except the COVIC pandemic year of 2020.

Of that, $11.3 million has been shared with the cities, villages and towns across the county for their use on highway projects.

“That’s been very appreciated by our municipalities,” Krause told the board.

Sheboygan County is the only county in the state which shares a portion of its sales tax revenues with local municipalities.

The county has used sales tax proceeds to finance its own highway and transportation projects.

Over the seven years, the county has completed 170 miles of roadwork on the county road system and stepped up the replacement of aging, worn out and outdated Highway Department equipment.

“We’re looking to complete between 16 and 25 miles (of roadwork) over the next five years,” Krause told the board.

“We’ve spent just over $43 million on roads and bridges and just under $9 million on equipment,” out of sales tax revenues, Krause said.

That has allowed the county to use property tax revenues for other county costs and reduce reliance on the property tax.

Krause pointed out that the county property tax rate has decreased each year since the sales tax was enacted, from $5.62 per thousand in 2016 to $3.76 in 2024.

“Through the support of the sales tax, our reliance on the property tax has decreased,” she noted.

Sales tax revenues have also helped the county reduce its long-term debt by $7 million, Krause said.

“It’s important that we continue to collect the sales tax and build on the positive impact,” Krause concluded.

New Postmaster

To the Editor,

It is a great honor to serve Sheboygan as your new Postmaster. In my 30 years with the United States Postal Service, I have seen firsthand the role the Postal Service plays connecting neighbors and our community to the nation. Our Post Offices serve as a lifeline for our small businesses to reach customers no matter where they are.

I was fortunate having a position that paid well and provided excellent benefits and opportunities where I could grow professionally and further support my family. I worked my way up the ranks and what I learned is the Postal Service is not just about having a job – it’s about developing a career where I can be part of something historic.

That idea is part of our 10-year plan, Delivering for America, where the Postal Service is focused on building an empowered workforce. Our employees are our greatest asset, and we are investing in them by providing training, competitive wages, benefits, and advancement opportunities.

I’ve seen firsthand the role the Postal Service plays connecting local communities. We serve as a lifeline for all our customers no matter where they are. That is a career worth having and I am thankful to be part of it.

On behalf of our employees at the Sheboygan Post Office, we thank you for supporting us and remind you that we are currently hiring for career positions. Come join us.

Sincerely,
Mike Slimmer

Historic soda memorialized on mural returns to production

by Dave Boehler

Welcome back, Hi-Ho Soda. After a long hiatus, Hi-Ho Soda is returning thanks to Sheboygan's Leo Bortsov and two other business partners.

Plymouth's Tyler Rezachek came up with the idea, and R&R Moving owner Ryan Schroeder is also involved.

"It's getting to that point where it's starting to feel real," the 34-year-old Rezachek said. "Until now, it sort of just felt like this crazy idea that a couple of guys had and were trying to do. And now that we have this huge piece of canning equipment in front of us, and we're running liquid through it and putting it in test cans, it's like, 'okay, we're doing this.'"

"So, it's at that point we're starting to feel real right now."

Bortsov heard of Rezachek's plan last fall, and the two eventually met for coffee.

"It turns out that Leo has about 15 years of culinary and soda making experience... and wanted to be part of it," Rezachek said. "So I brought Leo on board."

Soon, he gets another phone call, this time from Schroeder, who also has beverage producing experience in factories and wanted to join in on the fun.

"So we met in a room with the insulation falling out of the ceiling, no finished walls, a couple of notebooks and we hammered out what Hi-Ho was going to be," Rezachek said.

They recently launched pre-orders online (hi-hosoda.com) and sold over 2,000 cans of soda. One guy from Vermont even wanted 48 of them shipped to him.

Several area bars and restaurants have placed orders, and Bushman Homestead in Sheboygan was one of the first customers.

Rezachek is already in talks with a local chain of grocery stores, and a soda fountain and ice cream parlor that will be opening north of Sheboygan also wants to do business.

Once the pre-orders are taken care of, more Hi-Ho will be sold online - and at festivals and fairs.

The initial four flavors are orange (because that's what Hi-Ho was known for, according to Rezachek), cranberry, sour and a non-alcoholic old-fashioned soda.

Rezachek says his favorite is cranberry, by far.

"I'm a sour kind of guy," he said. "I love sour, and it definitely is like everything that you get from cranberry juice, that tartness that hangs in your mouth, and then you have all the carbonation from the soda, and it's refreshing."

The idea to revive Hi-Ho came about last Black Friday, when Rezachek was driving around and saw a sign for Christmas cookies for sale at the Historical Society.

He came across a silent auction item, which happened to be a Hi-Ho soda crate that included a short blurb about its history.

"So I kind of had this crazy idea that maybe I could make soda and sell it," Rezachek said. "I walked out of the historical society, and I'm like, 'man, I feel a connection to this. I'm an Iraq veteran; (the original founder) was a World War II veteran, I should look into this.'"

So Rezachek made an AI generated logo, created a Facebook page and posted: "we're back and ready to let you all know about the resurgence of the Hi-Ho Bottling Company, a downtown Plymouth staple for decades."

Rezachek says there were hundreds of Facebook followers a couple days later, and then he ordered two books from Amazon on making soda because he "had no idea" how to.

In April, a soda tasting event was held at Plymouth's Dino's Pizza & Subs, and over 30 people attended to give feedback.

"We made changes based on that," Rezachek said.

Three weeks ago, he and Bortsov flew to North Carolina and drove back with a U-Haul truck full of canning line from a brewery that went out of business.

The machine is up and running, the syrups are ready, and equipment and materials are set.

All they were waiting for was the cans to finish being printed in Milwaukee last week so they can put their soda in them.

Selling it out of a store was initially talked about, but it is too expensive.

"I'd rather spend that money on soda," Rezachek said.

And Hi-Ho is, as four more flavors are being developed to be launched at the end of summer.

For more information, email production@hi-hosoda.com.

Why is it called Hi-Ho?

The name was derived from the abbreviation of the two founders' last names.

The original Hi-Ho was created when Donald Holzschuh, who had been in military service during World War II, returned home to Plymouth in 1945.

Sugar was being rationed at that time and was not readily available to everyone.

However, as a veteran, Holzschuh was entitled to a quota of sugar as long as it would be used for business purposes.

Joseph Hildebrand, a former partial owner of Plymouth Springs Bottling Company, was interested in starting a beverage bottling company.

So the two decided to form a partnership, making plans to set up the new business using the sugar quota and establishing the name.

They remodeled a building that belonged to Holzschuh's father at 120 E. Mill St. (there's a Hi-Ho mural on the west side of it) and set up their bottling machinery. Holzschuh did the bottling, producing many fine flavored sodas. Hildebrand did the selling and deliveries in Plymouth and surrounding areas. The business grew and proved to be quite successful.

In 1949, Hildebrand sold his half of the partnership to Holzschuh, who continued to expand the business, bottling Hi-Ho beverages for a number of years.

In 1955, the business was sold and Holzschuh began his own excavating business in Plymouth.

The rites of spring just feel so right

by Emily Stone
 Naturalist/Educator
 Cable Natural History Museum

Warm morning sunshine and a gentle breeze greeted us at the Lake Owen boat launch in the northwest bay. Two pontoon boats bobbed near the dock, captained by intrepid Museum volunteers. Participants of the Chequamegon Bay Birding & Nature Festival, held each year in late May, filed onto the pontoons and took their seats. Soon, we were off!

With Jane Weber, a Loon Watch educator on one boat, and me on the other, we were in search of loons. The first Loon Pontoon of the summer always contains an air of mystery - who will we find this year? How many territories will have nests? How many nests will produce chicks?

Within a few minutes, we'd already spotted one loon swimming near a tiny island. Suddenly, there were two! Loons have a way of just appearing out of nowhere. We delighted in watching the pair swim and dive calmly near the island while we talked about loon adaptations, ecology, nesting habits and more.

Just as we were about to continue on down the lake, a third loon landed nearby. The pair didn't make a sound, but they did swim over to investigate. The three loons swam and dove in close proximity, calmly at first, and then with increasing signs of agitation. One of them stood up in the water, another flapped their wings. They dove and surfaced frequently. Then, suddenly, the intruding loon was off and running down the lake!

After we'd disembarked and I'd sent the participants back up to Ashland, Wisconsin, to meet their afternoon field trips, I drove over to Bibon Swamp. I didn't get to lead a formal birding trip here this spring, but I still wanted to see who was singing.

The bee-buzz-buzz call of a golden-winged warbler greeted me the instant I opened the van door. I've written about these pretty little birds before - and the interesting ways that they are hybridizing with blue-winged warblers.

Just a few steps down the gravel road, movement caught my eye - a flycatcher was darting out to catch insects and returning to the branch of a dead tree. This member of the Empidonax flycatcher family is difficult to identify just by sight. The group all looks pretty much the same with grayish-olive backs and whitish underparts. Their voices are distinctive, though! Flycatchers' songs are innate, not learned, and are standard within each species. I waited a while, but this little guy didn't sing me his name, so I walked on.

A flash of red caught my eye, and I found a rose-breasted grosbeak swinging from a treetop. He wasn't singing but looked pretty snazzy. Glancing down, I found a patch of fiddlehead ferns just perfect for picking. With my hands full, I walked back to the van. In the grassy roadside, a monarch butterfly - my first of the season! - nectared on a dandelion.

The repeated, robin-like phrases of a red-eyed vireo intensified above me in a grove of balsam poplars, so I decided that I'd try to spot him instead of just listen. Amazingly, I did find the little crooner despite the thicket of leaves already almost full size. After several tries, I captured a photo of him with his mouth wide open, singing one of his 20,000 songs for the day.

Back out in the sunshine, buzzing near the ground drew my attention to a fat common eastern bumble bee queen out gathering supplies for her new nest. A shiny blue blister beetle nibbled pollen from a strawberry blossom nearby. Just when I'd decided it was time to leave, the distinctive "Quick! Quick! Fire! Fire! Here! Here!" of an indigo bunting made me stare unproductively into the trees looking for his iridescent blue.

After hurrying back to the van, I met another group of participants at the turnoff, and led them to the North Country Trail Hardwoods State Natural Area. Here, we spotted large-flowered trillium, nodding trillium, the starry yellow flowers of blue-bead lily, and one bedraggled looking spring beauty almost finished with their life cycle for this season.

On top of the rugged basalt of the Juniper Rock Overlook, I was delighted to find the pink and yellow tubular flowers of pale corydalis in bloom, as well as blueberries, serviceberries, and chokecherries.

Remind me to return when they are ripe! Gnats and mosquitoes were out in full force as well, and they kept us moving in the warm afternoon woods.

As I wrote before, spring moves quickly! Already, the world feels filled to the brim with colorful new life. My day outside was truly a festival of birds and nature!

The official Chequamegon Bay Birding & Nature Festival will be over by the time you read this but make a note for next April to register for the 3-day event filled with field trips and presentations at <https://www.birdandnaturefest.com> And for photos of all of the birds and plants mentioned above, visit this article on my blog.

THREE LOONS: An intruding loon (right) exhibits a submissive posture with beak down, while the territorial pair show they mean business with their beaks forward. This interaction ended with the intruder leaving...at least for today. - Photos by Emily Stone.

SPRING BEAUTY: Spring continues to speed along. Not long ago the first spring beauty bloomed, and already the last blossom is fading.

RED-EYED VIREO: It's not hard to catch a red-eyed vireo with his mouth open. They have been recorded singing over 20,000 songs in a single day and continue singing through midday when other birds have gone quiet.

Sheboygan mayor elected co-chair of Great Lakes group

The Great Lakes and St. Lawrence Cities Initiative is proud to announce that Ryan Sorenson, Mayor of Sheboygan, WI, was elected as Co-Chair of the organization at last week's Annual General Meeting (AGM) in Montreal. The vote was unanimous by fellow mayors across Canada and the US. Mayor Sorenson has been a champion for the protection and restoration of our Great Lakes and St. Lawrence River Basin, first as City Councilor and then as Mayor since 2021.

One of the key initiatives that Mayor Sorenson has strongly advocated for is the Brandon Road Inter-Basin Project in the Water Resources Development Act of 2024. Sorenson and other participating mayors are urging Congress to approve 100% federal cost share for maintenance and operations of the project.

The Cities Initiative is a multinational coalition of local governments, led by 260 mayors and chief elected officers, working collaboratively to safeguard the economic, environmental and social health of communities in the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence River Basin.

North's Duesterbeck almost does it

She would have been first girl at school to win state track title

Sheboygan North has never had a girl win a championship at the state track and field meet.

Destiny Duesterbeck almost did this year, and she's got one season left to try again.

The junior finished runner-up in the shot put with a toss of 43 feet, 1.75 inches, which improves her previous school record.

It's the best showing by a Golden Raider at state since 2015, when Dan Becker won the pole vault and Monique Felix placed second in the triple jump.

"When the heat sheets were released," Duesterbeck said, "I was like, 'okay, I know I can hit 43 or above; at least a 42.' And that's what I was aiming for. I didn't really care about my place that much.

"But once I got there, I'm like, 'okay, I'm either gonna try and win it all or I'm gonna go home.'"

Thea Kral kept Duesterbeck from the historical moment, as the Ashwaubenon junior won the event with a 46-7.75.

"I'm overall happy with

where I placed," she said, "because I never have gone to state, and it being my first year at state and placing second right away, I feel like that leaves a good mark on not only my athletics, but me as a person with colleges and stuff like that."

Duesterbeck, who came close to qualifying for state as a freshman and sophomore, is getting recruited by Chicago State, UW-Parkside and Eastern Illinois. She's received emails from other schools since the state meet June 1 as well.

"The fact is at conference, you know, that's where you kind of show off, come in, and just ball out," coach Frantz Felix said. "She didn't really throw her best at conference. It was just like 37 feet, I believe it was. But at regionals, everything started getting better and better and better for her. And at state, she just kept the composure. The way she started, woke up that morning with her breakfast, went to the track and did her little routine, and she was just in a zone that day. No one was messing with her. No one was talking to her.

"I gave her a little advice though. 'Right now,' what I had told her, 'this competition is pretty much you. Everybody else is just in your way. ... They may be your best friend. You may know them throughout the season. Right now, they don't matter to you.'

"And the way she started throwing, everything she threw, from the beginning, was over 40 feet. For her, that's actually never, ever happened throughout the season. So we're like, man, something good is about to happen."

Boys results

North ran in two events, highlighted by the seventh-place finish (the top six get medals) in the 3,200 relay of junior Ryan Lang, sophomores Ian and Ethan Willemsen, and senior Drew Thomas.

Their time was 7 minutes, 56.91 seconds.

Lang also participated in the 800, and his 2:00.88 was good for 24th.

Rindfleisch fans 18 for A's

Sheboygan pitcher Brad Rindfleisch continues his climb the strikeout charts.

He struck out 18 batters - the fourth-most in the history of the A's - including 11 of the final 15 he faced, in a 4-1 victory at Green Bay. Rindfleisch is now fifth all-time among A's with 519 strikeouts in his career.

RINDFLEISCH

Other news and notes

The A's pitching staff allowed just one unearned run over 14 innings in a doubleheader sweep of the Chicago Clout. ... Sheboygan lost to Appleton, 10-4, as the Legends scored six runs in the bottom of the first inning - all with two outs. ... The A's fell to the Sussex Cardinals, 16-12 in 12 innings, in a contest that lasted 4 hours, 11 minutes.

Unlucky 13 for Golden Raiders

North's reign as Division 1 state golf champion came to an end last Tuesday after the Golden Raiders finished 13th in the year-end tournament at Blackwolf Run - Meadow Valley.

It is the fourth year in a row the squad has advanced to state, and sixth time in the last eight seasons.

Ryder Miller led North with a two-day total of 154, good for 14th place overall. He was nine strokes behind the leader.

Lutheran has one at state

Elliot Leibham placed seventh in Division 3 with an 27-hole total of 119 - six strokes shy of the medalist.

The Crusaders, who finished a school-best third at state last season, did not qualify this year as a team.

North wins sectional

The Golden Raiders edged Hartford by three strokes to claim the Homestead Sectional at Mequon's North Shore Country Club, as Roberto Reyes' 75 was one behind the Orioles' Owen Kuepper for first.

STATE TENNIS UPDATE

Three North tennis players who qualified for state tennis lost in the first round, but they'll have a chance to return.

No. 1 singles player Oliver Quintero, a junior, lost to Brookfield East's Luca Bonfilio in straight sets in the first round.

The No. 1 doubles team of junior Alex DiStefano/sophomore Sawyer Brault also lost in straight sets in the opening round to Cedarburg's Carter Fast/Nick Claditis.

Babak's offense earns her all-conference

North's Mara Babak was one of the top softball players in the conference this season, and it showed as she made first-team all-Fox River Classic.

"Basically, everything that you wanted her to do, she did," coach Chris Lenz said.

The senior shortstop ranked sixth in the conference with a .523 batting average in FRCC games.

She led the conference in walks, ranked second in slugging percentage and third in on-base percentage, and was in the top 10 for home runs.

"She led our team in every offensive category," Lenz said.

Babak played three years on varsity; it would have been four but she was injured as a freshman.

Three teammates made all-league as well, including two on the second team: senior utility Emma Wagner and junior outfielder Jady Jetzer.

Junior infielder Alayna Reiter got honorable mention.

Five Golden Raiders made all-conference, including two on the first team: senior defender Erica Herzog and junior midfielder Emerson Fitzgerald.

Herzog, who will play at Concordia University Wisconsin next season, finished with two goals and two assists. She was moved back from her holding midfield position to center defender this year.

"She just solidified the defense back there, and our defense was really the cornerstone that we built our team on this year," coach Tim Eirich said. "(The defense) really did a nice job, and she was a huge part of that."

Fitzgerald actually started the season as goalkeeper because the starter was injured, and still ranked second on her squad with four goals and third with 10 points.

"She's such a talented field player, we needed her back on the field when the goalie did come back," Eirich said. "She really is such a great all-around player."

Two other players made the second team in sophomore forward Mya Grams and junior defender Brielle Hamilton, and honorable mention went to junior defender Megan Gruenloh. Grams' 11 goals and 24 points were tops on the team.

Batt, Blattner honored by Big East

Lutheran/Christian's soccer squad finished second in the Big East, one game behind Cedar Grove-Belgium. No wonder five Crusaders earned all-conference.

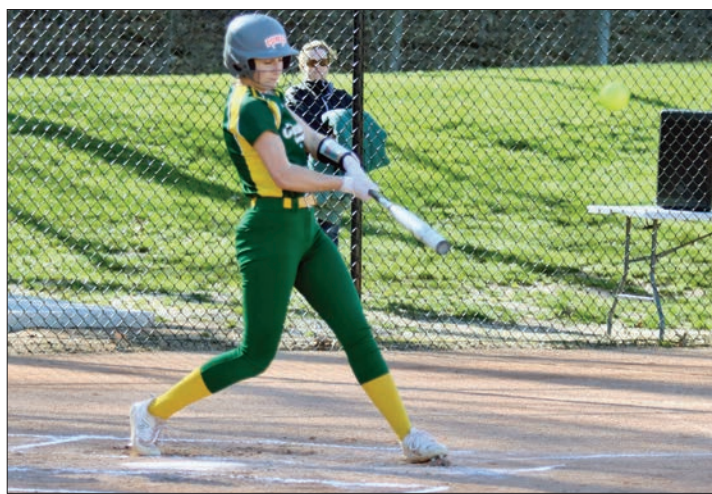

Two made the first team, including senior Taylor Batt.

"She has had an amazing year," coach Liesa Blattner said. "Moving her from the midfield to our back line, she has been an integral player to our defense. She doesn't give up and runs you down. She will be missed next year."

Sophomore Keeran Blattner also landed on the first team, as she led Lutheran/Christian with 13 assists. She was second with 25 goals and 63 points.

"Keeran again has had a great year for as young as she is," Blattner said. "She is able to move with the ball in tight spaces and get those tougher shots on goal."

Seefeldt sees his way through 20 Questions

North's Gavin Seefeldt finished his final season of tennis and has some explaining to do.

Q: What's the highlight of high school you'll remember 25 years from now?

A: SPEF Scholarship Night. I won $100,000 in scholarships, which pays for a full-ride to UW-La Crosse. My parents and I had no money saved for college and we have constant monthly costs of my Type 1 Diabetes medication. It truly was a life-changing night I will remember forever.

Q: What are you going to miss most about high school?

A: The ability to see all of my best friends every day. They've helped create so many of my favorite moments in life.

Q: If you can do anything this summer vacation, what would it be?

A: I would like to see my family as much as possible before I go to college and I would also like to take a vacation somewhere out of town. I've never really traveled outside of Wisconsin, so it would be nice to travel and see other parts of the United States.

Q: In a few months you'll be going away to college, and that makes you feel ... ?

A: Uneasy, but optimistic about what I can accomplish in college and in my future career.

Q: What is the best restaurant in the area?

A: Definitely Legend Larry's. I love their teriyaki wings and steak fries.

Q: You can have dinner there with any three people. Who are they?

A: Dwayne Johnson, Kevin Hart, and Adam Sandler.

Q: Favorite movie?

A: Blades of Glory.

Q: What last made you laugh until you cried?

A: When my tennis teammate was talking himself up after a meet on the bus ride home.

Q: Besides a phone, what three things would you want if you're stranded on an island?

A: A fire starter, machete, and clothes.

Q: What is a hidden talent that you have?

A: I have been playing the violin for 8 years. I am a three-time State Solo Ensemble qualifier, and was the second chair in North's concert orchestra.

Q: What is the song you enjoy the most but are afraid to admit?

A: Iris (The Goo Goo Dolls).

Q: If you could do anything for a living, what would it be?

A: I would be the head coach for a football or basketball team at the collegiate or professional level.

Q: What is your biggest pet peeve?

A: When I text someone, and I see they're texting other people on their phones and haven't texted me back yet.

Q: How would you describe your bedroom?

A: Compact, not much room but it gets the job done.

Q: What celebrity do you have a crush on?

A: Megan Fox, from the first

SEEFELDT

Transformers movie.

Q: What was the most embarrassing moment for you in any sport?

A: Probably losing our 8th-grade football game to Port Washington because of one player on their team. He accounted for 500-600 yards and 7-8 touchdowns - the score wasn't close.

Q: Favorite teacher?

A: Ms. Peterson (5th grade). Out of all the teachers I've had, she's been the most supportive and still supports me to this day.

Q: What is your least-favorite school subject?

A: History.

Q: What is the one TV show you always have to watch?

A: The Challenge on MTV.

Q: What scares you the most?

A: Probably spiders.

For Father's Day, Give the Gift of Connection

What to give the man who raised you, shared his years of wisdom with you and his many (many) dad jokes? Not another tie, that's for sure. Dads want what everyone wants - a loving connection with their family. Hearing loss can gradually rob that connection. Because hearing loss doesn't happen all at once, but slowly over time, your dad may not realize he has measurable hearing loss, but you'll notice the change.

Does your father:

- Continually ask friends and family members to repeat themselves?
- Act distant from grandchildren, whose high-pitched voices are more difficult to hear?
- Increase the volume of the TV to uncomfortable levels just so he can hear it?
- Turn down competing sound when he's trying to follow along in a conversation?
- Avoid certain settings where noise may be an issue, like movie theaters, restaurants, or parties?
- Complain that everyone is mumbling more these days?
- Get upset when you try to talk to him about hearing loss?

If you can answer yes to these, then hearing loss most likely is a problem, which can snowball into other issues, like an increased risk of falls, depression and even dementia. While a hearing evaluation may not be a "fun" Father's Day gift, it's affordable and shows you care. Welsch Hearing Aid Company has a special gift certificates just for the occasion.

If your pop is reluctant to go or doesn't think their hearing loss is severe enough to warrant an evaluation, let them know it's always a good idea to get a baseline reading - even for younger people! A baseline can show hearing loss over the years and when amplification can be helpful.

If there is indeed a hearing loss, options will be provided as to the best steps to take.

However, in the meantime, you can still connect with your dad by communicating more intentionally.

1. Speak Face to Face. If your dad is sitting, sit at the same level, look him in the face. This gives him visual context clues like your expressions and even some lip reading to help him understand your words. Suffice it to say, don't try to talk to your dad from a different room.

2. Take Turns. If you notice the grandkids are swarming gramps, make sure they are taking turns talking to him so that he has a better chance of understanding them.

3. Rephrase. If your dad is having trouble understanding, and you're already speaking clearly (slowly and with good volume), try rephrasing your thought. Certain letters, like f, s and h are higher frequency and are the first letters that those with hearing issues lose.

Stop by today at Welsch Hearing Aid Company to pick up a gift certificate for a Hearing Evaluation for Father's Day. Your dad already has every gadget under the sun, what he really wants is a connection with his family, and that starts with being able to hear them. Call us at 920-452-0213 to schedule an appointment.

Dreaming of Baking

Orange Date-Nut Bread

Myra Stokdyk Eischen

slow cooker being that I could put it together before work or the night before, and just let it work while I was working. Coming home to a fresh made meal is always nice. Now trying desserts in the slow cooker is kind of fun too.

I am going to try a honey wheat bread next, but for this issue I tried the Orange Date-Nut Bread.

Credit: Rival Crockpot slow cooker recipes.

Note #1: I used a 9x5 clear Pyrex loaf pan and it was perfect for my pot.

Note #2: I used 1 T. fresh orange peel instead of the dried. It gave it a nice fresh citrusy taste.

Note #3: I baked it for 3 1/2 hours and it is nice and moist, I tested it with a toothpick to see that it was done inside

Note #4: It suggested substituting 1 c. dried cranberries for the dates- I think that would be wonderful too.

Note #5 As with most quick breads, it freezes very well. Take out at least one hour before serving to thaw.

This recipe is fairly easy- but some people may have been cautious about trying it on their own without a recommendation. I wouldn't hesitate to serve this to company or give as a gift.

Orange Date-Nut Bread

Grease and flour:

1 qt. high sided baking pan.

* Set Aside

Mix by hand:

Combine in small dish:

2 c. flour

1/2 c. chopped pecans

1 t. baking powder

1/2 t. baking soda

1/4 t. salt

In larger dish mix:

1 c. chopped dates*

2 t. dried orange peel*

Pour over top:

2/3 c. boiling water

Add and mix:

3/4 c. sugar

2 T. shortening

1 egg, slightly beaten

1 t. vanilla

Stir in:

flour mixture just until mixed

Pour into greased pan

Place in slow cooker.

Cover, set on high,

bake for about 2 1/2 hours until sides begin to brown.*

Remove carefully from slow cooker.

Cool on wire rack for 10 min. and dump out of pan on wire rack to finish cooling.

Slice with serrated knife and serve with butter.

Food/News Recipes, tips & nutrition

Turn to turkey for meals

Turkey does not garner much attention outside of Thanksgiving or other holidays when a roasted turkey is the centerpiece of a large family meal. However, turkey is a lean, tasty and versatile protein source that can be utilized in many meals. Individuals interested in reducing the fat and calorie content of some of their favorite dishes can opt for turkey over red meat.

This is the case for "Turkey Burgers," from "The New Trailside Cookbook" (Firefly) by Kevin Callan and Margaret Howard. Turkey substitutes for ground beef in juicy burgers that can be cooked on the trail or in the backyard.

Turkey Burgers Makes 4 patties

1 pound lean ground turkey (or chicken)
1/3 cup panko crumbs or dried bread crumbs
1 egg, beaten

1/4 cup sour cream or plain yogurt
2 green onions, chopped
1 teaspoon each dried thyme and oregano
1/2 teaspoon each salt and freshly ground pepper
4 whole wheat buns, halved

In a bowl, combine chicken, crumbs, egg, sour cream, onions, thyme, oregano, salt, and pepper. Gently form into four evenly shaped patties. Wrap each patty in plastic wrap or foil to keep separated. Refrigerate or freeze until ready to use.

When ready to enjoy, cook burgers 6 minutes per side and serve on toasted whole wheat buns. Garnish with favorite toppings.

Farkle

Hi! My name is Farkle! I'm a young girl who was surrendered because my owner no longer had time to take care of me. I have so much fun playing with toys, and I am a good walker and know all my basic commands! I'm such a good girl! Obedience classes would be beneficial because I am smart and eager to please!

My fur is like velvet and I have the most beautiful eyes. I am full of energy, but also love to cuddle and get hugs. I'm a perfect angel in the car and love rolling over to get belly rubs! I can be hesitant of new people at first, but once I open up, I will be your best friend! I don't seem to be a big fan of kids, so I would do best in a home with older kids who will respect my space, preferably teenage and older. I have lived with another dog in the past, but some dogs here overwhelm me, so we would need to have a proper introduction first to make sure it is a good fit. I'd love to break free of the shelter environment. I'm ready for a new start! Come ask to meet me!

For more information on adopting Farkle or how to submit an application, please visit www.adoptsheboygancounty.org or call 920-458-2012

DOJ provides resources as sextortion increases

MADISON – The Wisconsin Department of Justice (DOJ) Internet Crimes Against Children (ICAC) Task Force is providing resources for online safety as sextortion cases increase throughout the country, including in Wisconsin. A La Crosse man was recently sentenced to 18 years in prison for his role in a sextortion case investigated by the Wisconsin DOJ Division of Criminal Investigation.

"We must keep our kids safe from online dangers," said Attorney General Josh Kaul. "The Wisconsin Department of Justice is committed to holding accountable those who use the internet to commit crimes against children."

Sextortion is a form of child sexual exploitation where children are threatened or blackmailed, most often with the possibility of sharing with the public a nude or sexual image of them, by a person who demands additional sexual content, sexual activity, or money from the child. This year, so far, the Wisconsin ICAC Task Force has received 45 cybertips related to sextortion. In 2023, the task force received 176 cybertips related to sextortion.

According to the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children (NCMEC), there has been a dramatic increase in financial sextortion where the offender demands money of the child. Teenage boys have been the most common targets in these recent cases. A majority of the suspects in these cases are located in Nigeria, Cote d'Ivoire and the Philippines. NCMEC recently launched an interactive experience online that allows parents and caregivers to see the reality of financial sextortion through an interactive film. If you or someone you know has information on potential child exploitation, you can report it to NCMEC online at <https://report.cybertip.org/> or by calling 1-800-843-5678.

Woman helps neighbor get new kidney

by Adam (LaUine) LaScavelia
(Son-in-law of the recipient)

After three years of weekly dialysis appointments, doctor visits, and check-ins Gavin Scudella received a new kidney on April 30th, 2024 at the Froedtert Hospital, located in Wauwatosa, Wisconsin.

Back in December of 2021 Gavin was diagnosed with kidney failure and began 3 times a week dialysis appointments while waiting for a kidney donation. Dialysis, the process of mechanically cleansing toxins from the blood, takes an average of 4 hours to complete.

Gavin has since completed over 1,872 hours of dialysis.

Gavin was able to receive this life saving transplant thanks to his neighbor of 28 years, Kelly Haefs.

Kelly Haefs was born in Fond du Lac County and moved to Plymouth in 1994 with her husband Scott. Gavin and his wife Chris moved in next door in 1996 and they became close friends with the Haefs family the following year. Kelly and Chris even announced their first pregnancies on the same evening out.

On January 31, 2022 Kelly had her first evaluation to see if she could become a living donor, little did she know at the time how perfect of a neighbor she was. In April, after weeks of back-and-forth testing Kelly was approved to be a living kidney donor. On May 22nd, Kelly and Gavin took part in the "Donate Life with Love" event at First Congregational United Church of Christ in Plymouth, and on May 26th, Kelly received the news that she was a good match for Gavin.

Sadly, the celebration was short lived as the surgeon who would have performed the procedure left Froedtert Hospital. While waiting for a new surgeon to be hired Gavin's health began to decline further.

Dialysis can be difficult on the heart. With the forced fluid transfer by the machines Gavin's heart health began to decline to the point of several doctors suggesting he receive a dual heart and kidney transplant. At this time his kidneys were functioning at 5%, his heart at 25%, he had fluid forming in his lungs, and he was using a C-PAP machine at night to assist with breathing.

In February, 2023 Gavin had an artificial defibrillator implanted. This was a measure the transplant team felt was necessary due to his decreased heart health. By this time, the medical team at Froedtert Hospital had found a new surgeon and was ready to go, but they couldn't approve the procedure until they felt Gavin's heart could handle the transplant and recovery. By December, thanks to physical therapy and new heart medications Gavin's heart was up to 38% functioning. The medical team still wanted to do a heart and a kidney transplant. By January, 2024 after continuing physical therapy and medication Gavin's health was in a good enough condition that he was approved for only a kidney transplant, the heart transplant no longer needed.

At this point in the journey Kelly was told that the new transplant team had determined she was not the best possible match for Gavin and asked if she would be willing to donate through the National Kidney Registry, which Froedtert was now a part of, allowing the team to find an even better match for Gavin. Kelly wanted the best for Gavin's health, so they entered the National Kidney Registry together on February 7th.

Kelly described the Registry as, "a national organization that facilitates the pairing of donors and recipients from 102 transplant centers around the country. This can be done by a paired or an advanced voucher donation. Froedtert's old transplant team was not part of this organization, but the new team was.

"A paired donation takes longer to organize, as they need to find both a donor and recipient that match Gavin and I, but in reverse order. In other words, the donor in that pair would match Gavin and I would match the recipient in that pair. With an advanced voucher donation, I donate as soon as a match to my kidney is found and at that time Gavin is given a voucher which allows his team to find a better match for him from the registry."

On February 9th, Kelly received the call that a recipient for her kidney had been found and on March 5th she would go into surgery for the donation, but on February 12th the recipient canceled the surgery.

On February 19th Kelly received another call saying she was now scheduled for the donation on March 27th and this time it wasn't canceled. Kelly was back home with her family one day after surgery. The Scudella family began the countdown to Gavin's perfect match being found. They were told this could take 3 to 6 months.

Just 6 days later on April 2nd, as the Haefs and Scudellas sat together enjoying the rainy day, they received the news together that a donor had been found for Gavin and the surgery was set for April 30th.

Gavin has since completed his surgery and is doing well, looking forward to a bright new future all thanks to the Kidney Transplant Team at Froedtert Hospital, his wonderful friends and family that have been with him every step of the way, and his neighbor Kelly, a modern-day Saint.

Pole bending on the Flambeau

Hello friends,
I have made an attempt recently to let you know that I am currently in a cycle of my life that is very busy but also positive. This week's column should be fun.

Saturday, May 25th
High 74, low 44

Plan A had me paddle trolling on Lake Superior out of either Washburn or Ashland, and I was very excited about it. That plan was cancelled when a good friend told me the wind would be too strong to paddle a canoe on that piece of water.

I changed that plan to spending 30 hours on the Turtle Flambeau Flowage and would begin on Saturday instead of Friday. I would have to leave Sunday, as I had a graduation party to go to. When I travel, I am blessed with two sets of neighbors who take turns feeding my cattle, chickens, and dogs/puppies. This morning, I had planned on getting up at 4 a.m., but at 3, I heard something in my backyard that did not sound right. ... I looked outside and directly on the other side of the glass was my two steers and a heifer, all about 1,100 pounds and very loose.

Had I left yesterday, this would have been an ugly story. I ran outside, got a bucket of feed and lured them back to their enclosure. Today I put my canoe in at Murray's landing, which is the most remote location on the flowage and a place that I truly love. I had concerns that it may be a challenge to get a campsite at this point on Memorial Day weekend, but that would not be the case.

As my journey began, I decided to drag a Salmo behind me, which is an effective type of crankbait. I had paddled maybe 30 seconds when my pole started bending and I landed an 11-inch perch. There would be a brutal headwind but I had no cares, I was on the Flambeau, I already caught a fish, my cattle did not run away and in just four days, my daughter would be coming home from Montana for a wedding. To make matters even better, my rod started bending over again and this time I caught an 18-inch smallmouth bass. Just after that, I found a super cool campsite, made a comfortable camp and then went paddle trolling for whatever was hungry. It did not take long and the Salmo had lured in the first crappie of the trip; it was a beautiful 13-incher. The rest of my day was fish catching, going down memory lane from a place my dad first took me to 54 years ago, and enjoying the non-stop view of peace and nature.

Sunday, May 26th
High 72, low 42

The Salmo was hot again this morning and it was tough knowing that I had to head out, but I was headed towards Glidden where I am blessed with many good friends from the area and would be going to Jersey Polencheck's graduation party.

Where People Are Worth More Than Money

DNR seeking public input on Great Lakes beaches

MADISON – The Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources (DNR) is asking the public to help update Wisconsin's beach list to keep people safe on Great Lakes beaches this summer, including the 15 Sheboygan County beaches on Lake Michigan.

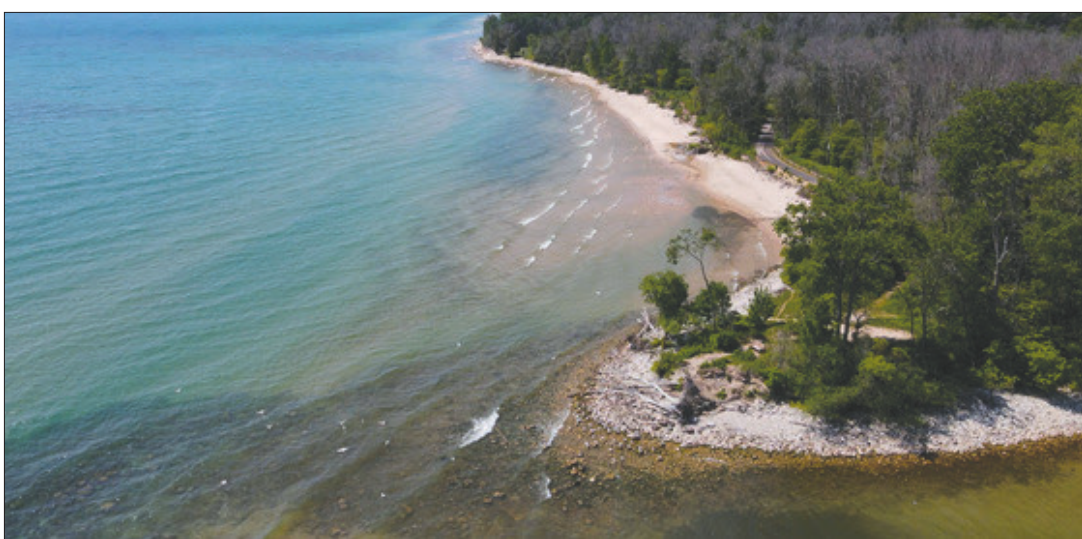

Each year, the DNR's beach program contacts residents, local beach managers and public health departments along Wisconsin's Great Lakes coasts to determine if any changes are needed to the Wisconsin beach list and program information.

A beach is defined as any place where the public has recreational access to the water, regardless of whether the location is used for swimming. Boat launches, some natural areas and private beaches available to the public are included.

“Public comments ensure the Wisconsin beach list reflects locally used names, along with the status of beaches and boat launches due to changing natural conditions and public access,” said Diane Packett, DNR beach program manager. “We’d like people to let us know if any beaches are missing or not properly identified on the list and if there are boat launches that are no longer active and should be taken off.”

The proposed changes to the beach list for 2024 are available online on the DNR's website at: <https://dnr.wisconsin.gov/topic/Beaches/BeachList.html>

Please email public comments on the beach listings to DNRBeachHealth@wisconsin.gov by Dec. 31, 2024.

The public is encouraged to review Wisconsin's beach list and share feedback with the DNR. – photo by Wisconsin DNR

A LARGE SNAPPING TURTLE with mossy back and large claws cruises through clear lake water. - Beacon photo by Ian Johanson

Help protect turtles during nesting season

The Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources (DNR) encourages the public to help nesting turtles by following a few easy actions throughout the nesting season.

This time of year, turtles emerge from rivers, lakes and wetlands to find a spot for their nests. Wisconsin's 11 turtle species lay eggs in shallow, buried nests from late May through June, where they are often along roads and in residential yards. Drivers can help reduce turtle road mortality — a leading cause of turtle decline throughout Wisconsin — by being mindful when driving near swamps, lakes and rivers.

"When turtles are more active during nesting season, they face added risks. Some are run over by vehicles, while others face predation from raccoons, skunks and coyotes. Some protected species are also taken illegally from the wild and sold in the illegal pet trade," said Andrew Badje, DNR conservation biologist. "Protecting adult females and turtle nests in the wild is essential for conserving Wisconsin turtle populations."

Here are some ways Wisconsinites can help turtles from now through July:

Protect nests: Follow instructions and a step-by-step video on how to build a nest cage that keeps predators out and allows hatchlings to exit on their own.

Drive cautiously: Slow down, be alert and reduce distractions, especially on roads near wet areas, lakes and rivers.

Share your sightings: Report turtle observations, road crossings and nest sites using the DNR's Reporting Form to help us manage and conserve turtles more effectively. You can also report suspicious illegal activity associated with turtles to the DNR's Violation Hotline online or by calling or texting 800-847-9367.

Keep Wildlife Wild: Help protect Wisconsin's native turtles by keeping wild turtles in the wild and not releasing pet turtles.

Donate: DNR conservation efforts for endangered and threatened species wouldn't be possible without support from the Endangered Resources Fund.

The healing power of the outdoors

Being in good health and avoiding various diseases often comes down to a combination of factors. Individuals may be aware that nutrition and exercise play important roles in personal well-being, but it appears that nature may provide its own medicinal benefits as well.

The following are some of the ways nature can have a healing effect.

- Immunity protection: Trees and plants emit aromatic compounds called phytoncides. When inhaled, these compounds can ignite healthy biological changes similar to the concepts of aromatherapy. When people walk in forests or other green areas, they often experience changes in the blood that are associated with protection against cancer, improved immunity and lower blood pressure, says Dr.

Qing Li, a professor at the Nippon Medical School in Tokyo.

- Get a brain break: When spending time in nature, attention is focused on the scenery, the animals and the rest of the environment. This may help quiet the rush of thoughts in the head that clutters the ability to think freely.

- Reduce stress: Stress is a catalyst for a number of adverse health conditions. The Mayo Clinic says stress can cause headache, muscle tension, fatigue, changes in sex drive, and a weaker immune system, among other things.

- Get vitamin D: The body naturally produces vitamin D from sun exposure. The National Institutes of Health says it is optimal to have sun exposure for five to 30 minutes a day, most days a week, to absorb UVB rays and effectively make vitamin D. Vitamin D is a nutrient the body needs to build and maintain strong bones. Vitamin D also regulates many other cellular functions in the body, and may be able to prevent cognitive decline.

- Inspires exercise: People may be more inclined to be physically active while outdoors. Hiking, cycling, swimming, and even strolls in the park all make the outdoors more fun. Exercise promotes heart health and helps people maintain a healthy weight.

Meals on Wheels offering a Parisian experience

SHEBOYGAN - Tickets are now available for Fresh Meals On Wheels' 10th June-A-Palooza benefit, promising an afternoon and evening of French culture, cuisine, entertainment and charitable giving.

The event is 3-9 p.m. Saturday, June 22 at the privately-owned Christopher Farm & Gardens, W580 Garton Road, Sheboygan. Attendees will be able to stroll through the 60 acres of uniquely themed gardens exploring nooks and crannies of flora delights while engaging in Parisian-inspired experiences.

Live entertainment will include Cancan Dancers, a high energy dance that gained popularity in 1800s France, Tonic Roots, Jon Doll, Lori Woodall, Minor Worries and more.

Attendees will also enjoy some staples of French cuisine like croissants paired with coffee, wine tasting, Petit Fours, Nicoise Salad, Beef Bourguignon, Chicken Fricassee, Ratatouille and much more.

June-A-Palooza 2024 will also get guests into the Olympic spirit for Paris 2024 with demonstrations from the Sheboygan Fencing Club and others Olympic-inspired feats including a cabbage shot put competition and axe throwing with Longhouse Axe Bar.

Guests at June-A-Palooza will bid on one-of-a-kind 3-foot metal fork and art palette sculptures designed by local artists as part of a silent auction. All proceeds will go to support the mission of Fresh Meals On Wheels, to provide fresh, homemade meals and wellness visits for older adults and homebound individuals throughout Sheboygan County.

Pre-ordered general admission tickets are $165, and will cost $200 at the door. The Premiere Early Access tickets are $500, where two guests will receive front row parking, early access and an exclusive behind-the-scenes look at the gardens. Tickets for June-A-Palooza are available at fresh-mealsonwheels.org/events or call 920-451-7011.

This event is made possible thanks to our premier sponsors: Acuity, Christopher Farm & Gardens and WLKN Lake 98.1; as well as support from Sargento, Johnsonville, Kohler, Sartori, Master Gallery, Bemis, Waldo State Bank and Bank First.

Environmental park to host 5K trail walk June 29

SHEBOYGAN - Maywood Environmental Park is excited to announce its 2nd Annual Walk on the Wild Side 5K Trail Walk. The event will be held on Saturday, June 29 at the park. Participants can begin walking anytime between 9am and Noon that day. For information on how to register visit <https://gomaywood.org/events/walk-on-the-wild-side/>

Maywood's Walk on the Wild Side raises vital funds for environmental education programs and projects at the park. The walk route allows participants to explore all six of the park's habitats: mixed hardwood forest, pine forest, ponds, river, wetlands, and prairie. Along the route are family-friendly games and information about each habitat.

"Many people don't realize that the programs offered at Maywood are provided by a non-profit organization that supports the park. The money raised through events like Walk on the Wild Side allows the Trust of Maywood to continue to offer these programs," said Kendra Kelling, Maywood Park Director.

The walk is not timed and encourages participants to take their time and enjoy nature. Following the walk, participants will enjoy snacks and beverages at the Ecology Center.

"The Walk on the Wild Side is a great way for family and friends to spend time together in nature," said Angie Doell, Trust Administrator and organizer of the event. "It allows people the opportunity to explore areas of the park they may not have visited before."

In addition to the 5K Trail Walk, a shorter prairie loop will be offered for those preferring a flat walking route. A virtual event is also available throughout the month of June for those unable to participate the date of the walk.

For more information, visit the Maywood website, email maywood@sheboyganwi.gov, or call (920) 459-3906.

Three health benefits of playing golf

Playing a round of golf is a great way to spend a morning, afternoon or early evening. That's particularly true when the weather is warm and a golf course is soaked in sunshine and cooled down by warm breezes whistling through the surrounding trees.

Though many see golf as recreation, the sport can offer some notable health benefits. The Royal and Ancient Golf Club of St. Andrews, which was founded in 1754 and has since grown from a small club to one with 2,500 members across the globe, published a golf and health report in 2020. That report highlights research indicating the ways golf promotes both mental and physical health, and such evidence can make anyone feel better about spending a day on their nearest course. With that in mind, individuals can consider these three notable health benefits of playing golf the next time they're thinking about visiting their local course.

1. Golf may help you live longer.

Frustrated golfers who can't master their short game may suggest otherwise, but a study published in the Scandinavian Journal of Medicine and Science and Sports discovered a 40 percent reduction in mortality rates among 300,000 members of the Swedish Golf Federation. That corresponded to an increased life expectancy of roughly five years and applied to golfers of all ages, genders and socio-economic backgrounds.

2. Golf can help combat disease.

A summary of findings conducted by researchers at the University of Edinburgh and published in the British Journal of Sports Medicine in 2016 found that golf can help prevent and treat 40 major chronic diseases, including diabetes, heart attack, stroke, depression, dementia, and cancers of the breast and colon. That link probably has something to do with golf being a physical activity that encourages people to embrace a less sedentary lifestyle. Indeed, the R&A notes that additional studies have found that risk factors for heart disease and stroke, including high blood pressure, are reduced among people who play golf.

3. Golf promotes social interaction.

The Alzheimer's Society reports that social isolation can increase a person's risk for dementia by roughly 60 percent. People who play golf tend to play in groups of two, three or four, and that social interaction can promote social interaction among people of all ages. Social isolation also has been linked to additional mental health issues, including anxiety and depression, so activities like golf that encourage social interaction can help people safeguard their mental health.

Six national events coming to Weill Center this summer

The Weill Center for the Performing Arts, a 1,150-seat live event venue located in the heart of downtown Sheboygan's growing arts and entertainment district, will bring six national acts to its stage this summer.

Continuing the summer of events, the Weill Center welcomes Bob Marley's former band member Junior Marvin & The Legendary Wailers on Friday, June 21. Marvin has been performing with The Wailers band since 1977. He is the lead guitarist and musical contributor on all subsequent Bob Marley & The Wailers albums.

Newly announced, The Rocket Man Show, An Ultimate Elton John Tribute will perform for the first time in Sheboygan on Friday, June 28. Scotsman Rus Anderson, Elton John's official 70's body double featured in the 'Farewell Yellow Brick Road' world tour pilots a night of Elton John's greatest hits, elaborate costumes, and powerful piano playing.

On Saturday July 13, The Great DuBois, the world's most unique two-person circus act returns to the Weill stage. Known as the Masters of Variety, duo Michael DuBois and Viktoria Grimmey present a fast-paced, high-energy circus show for all ages showcasing incredible feats of unicycle, aerial, circus stunts, contortion, and magic. DuBois and Grimmey have previously been featured on Britney Spears' Circus World Tour and in blockbuster films such as "Burlesque," and "The Greatest Showman."

The Weill Center will also present Comedy Night on Friday, July 19. This show features five of the best young stand-up comedians from across Wisconsin including Sheboygan Native Rachel Mac, as well as Darrell Cochran, Elijah Holbrook, Rich D'Amore, and Dana Ehrmann. Ehrmann returns to the Weill after most recently performing as opening act for Charlie Berens in March of 2024. Content includes absurd dating stories, advice on adulting, observations about Wisconsin, self-improvement, and self-deprecation.

As summer concludes, the Weill Center will present Buffet's Margaritaville on Saturday, August 3. A tribute to the late icon Jimmy Buffet, the audience will feel transported to a tropical paradise. Featuring songs like "Fins," "Cheeseburger in Paradise," and "Come Monday," experience a colorful stage abundant with palm trees, tiki bars, and beach balls.

Tickets are on sale now and can be purchased at weillcenter.com, by phone at (920) 208-3243, or in person at 826 N 8th Street in Sheboygan. The Weill Center ticket office is open from Tuesday to Friday, 12 - 4 p.m., and one hour prior to events.

How to spend a great day at the zoo

Zoos, aquariums and wildlife centers offer visitors the opportunity to view exotic animals without having to venture too far from home. Zoos are great places to enjoy a full day of seeing wildlife and enjoying an extraordinary environment. Children certainly marvel at the sights at zoos, but animals can be equally thrilling for adults.

Planning a zoo visit in advance can ensure visitors make the most of their trip, and these strategies can help elevate any zoo visit.

• Choose the right day. Zoos are less likely to be crowded on weekdays. If possible, take a day off from work or school to visit the zoo early in the week. Things may get busier as the weekend nears.

• Time it right. On warm days, a zoo can be uncomfortable during the peak heat of the afternoon. Arrive very early or later in the afternoon when the sun is not beating down; otherwise, think of going on an overcast or slightly misty day when attendance figures to be low and temperatures may be more manageable.

• Research nearby zoos. Conduct some online research to find a zoo featuring animals everyone wants to see. Some may specialize in certain habitats. For example, many people flock to Zoo Atlanta to see the Panamanian Golden Frog, which is rarely seen elsewhere in the world, if at all.

• Buy tickets in advance.

Instead of wasting precious time waiting in line for tickets, buy them in advance and then sail through the entryway. You may even get a discount for buying early. Some zoos also offer memberships so allow to visit many times at a lower price than standard entry.

• Pack healthy snacks and drinks (if allowed). Zoo visits tend to be day-long affairs, so you'll want to stay hydrated and well fed. Lines can be long at zoo restaurants or snack carts, so having a few things on hand can make all the difference. Keep in mind some facilities do not allow outside food or beverages, so check policies prior to arriving.

• Utilize the lockers. If the zoo has lockers, stash extra items inside so you're not bogged down with stuff. This is especially helpful when traveling with young children.

• Plan the visit around the best attraction. Visit the exhibit you really want to see first. This way if time gets away from you or if everyone tires, you will not have missed it.

Zoo are entertaining places to spend a day. Some pre-visit planning can make such days even better.

How to safeguard your vision when spending time outdoors

The great outdoors beckons billions of people across the globe every day. There's much to be gained from spending time outdoors. According to the American Psychological Association, exposure to nature has been linked to improved attention, lower stress, improvements in mood, and reduced risk of psychiatric disorders.

With so much to gain from spending time in the great outdoors, it's no wonder so many people embrace opportunities to get outside. When doing so, it's important that individuals take proper precautions, such as wearing sunscreen and staying hydrated. But it's equally important to protect your eyes before soaking up some springtime and summer sun.

• Purchase prescription sunglasses, if necessary. Sunglasses are vital to protecting the eyes from the sun's ultraviolet (UV) rays. If you wear prescription eyeglasses indoors, then you should also wear prescription sunglasses when spending time outside. Even contact lens wearers may want to invest in prescription sunglasses for those times when they're engaging in physical activity outdoors. Sweat makes its way into the eyes when exerting oneself outdoors, and that can make contacts uncomfortable. Airborne allergens like pollen also can make contacts less comfortable when outside, and prescription sunglasses can help people avoid such discomfort while protecting the eyes from UV rays.

• Wear a hat or visor. Hats and visors also help to protect the eyes from UV rays. The National Eye Institute recommends wearing sunglasses even on cloudy days, but it's easy to forget them when leaving home or the car on an overcast morning or afternoon. Hats or visors can serve as a safety net on cloudy days when you forget to bring your sunglasses.

• Avoid rubbing your eyes. Whether it's airborne allergens or debris, things can get into the eyes when spending time outdoors. In such instances, your first instinct might be to rub your eyes. However, University of Utah Health notes that rubbing your eyes can be very dangerous and increase risk for illness. Virus droplets can attach to hands and enter the body through the conjunctiva, a thin layer of tissue that lines the inner eyelid. This can cause infection in the eye. Dust and dirt on relatively clean but unwashed hands also can enter the eyes upon rubbing them, potentially leading to irritation and infection. So it's best to avoid rubbing eyes when they feel irritated and opt for eye cleaners and eyelid wipes instead.

• Keep your hands clean. Though it's best to avoid touching your eyes with your hands, doing so is an instinctive response for many people. Frequent hand washing can keep hands free from bacteria and dust that can enter the eyes after they are touched or rubbed. No one knows how clean or dirty surfaces outside their own homes are, and surfaces outside may be particularly dirty or dusty. Frequent hand washing reduces the likelihood that dirt and debris will find its way into your eyes.

When the great outdoors beckons, individuals can take various steps to protect their eyes from damage and infection.

Children's musician Jim Gill to perform at the City Green
